THE MURDER OF WILMOTH IS AVENGED

Mob Hangs One Assassin and Shoots Another Dead in His Cell.

TOWN CLEARED OF ITS NEGROES

Every Colored Resident Given Half an Hour to Leave, and Each Obeys.

UNVERIFIED RUMOR OF BLACKS ARMING

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Elkins, W. Va., July 24.—Swift retribution was meted out to two of the murderers of Chief of Police F. H. Wilmoth at Womelsdorf about 3:30 o'clock this morning. Rudolph Clement was taken from the little lock-up and swung to a tree in the public park not far away, and William Carroll was shot to death in his cell in the lock-up shortly afterward.

Early in the night a mob overpowered the four guards and took one of the negroes away with the intention of lynching him, but he begged so piteously for his life that he was taken back and placed again in the prison. Shortly after 3 o'clock a well organized crowd of masked men with Winchesters appeared in town on horseback, rode quietly through and hitched their horses in secluded spots.

They then went to the lock-up, which was only dimly lighted with a small lamp, and demanded the prisoners. The guards refused to grant their demands, and put up a stiff resistance when the mob attempted to enter the door; but the frowning mouths of a dozen big guns intimidated the four men who stood guard. They told the mob to go ahead and help themselves, as it was plain to them that resistance was useless.

The Negro Started to the Park.

The mob rushed into the lock-up, tore down the bars in front of the cell of the negro, Rudolph Clements, and told him he was wanted.

"All right, boss; all right," replied Clements, "I'se coming."

And he came, too, for at that instant a noose was thrown around his neck and he was started to the park in a trot.

Clements walked without assistance, falling but once, when the members of the mob who had the other end of the rope got too fast for him. In an instant he regained his feet and followed them. On reaching the park he was walked around for several minutes while the mob was trying to find a suitable tree with accommodating limbs that would bear Clements' weight. During the search the negro begged for his life, saying his partner, and not he had fired the fatal shot. His pleadings were useless.

The mob soon selected a small sapling. One member of the mob quickly climbed the tree and placed the rope over a limb, but the negro's weight was too much, the sapling bending to the ground. Clements was a pitiable sight. Completely terrorized, and writhing, he continued to beg for mercy.

One Shot Severed the Rope.

Another tree was selected and the rope was thrown over a large limb. Clements kicked so vigorously at this juncture that he succeeded in getting his feet back upon the ground after he had been hoisted high in the air. He was pulled up again, and before the other end of the rope had been fastened to the tree shots were fired into his body, fusillade after fusillade. Finally a charge from a shotgun cut the rope above Clements' head, and his body, which was mangled beyond recognition, tumbled among the lynchers. Not content with this, one member of the mob placed his gun against the negro's head and fired several shots directly into it.

Quickly the mob returned to the lock-up and spoke to the other negro, Will York, who pretended to be asleep; but after being shouted to several times, and seeing that the mob was starting to tear down the cell, he made a demonstration to resist. Immediately his body was filled with lead.

The lynchers mounted their horses and rode quietly away.

Both negroes declared yesterday that they were not the guilty ones, but each accused the other, and as both fired shots at Chief Wilmoth, both were considered guilty of the crime. The dead negroes were allowed to remain in the position in which they were left until a late hour this morning when a coroner's inquest was conducted by Justice J. J. Phillips.

The jury returned the usual verdict, that the deceased men came to their death by being shot at the hands of unknown persons.

Every Negro Driven From Town.

The bodies were buried at Womelsdorf this afternoon. Notice was served yesterday on every negro in the town to get away in 30 minutes and to never return again. Every one left, but a truce was arranged this morning which permitted the negroes to carry away their belongings. A few came today, packed their goods and left on the noon train.

Until a month ago Womelsdorf never had a negro resident, and it is doubtful if there will be another colored inhabitant again soon, as notice has been served that the citizens don't care to have them.

There was a rumor today that several hundred negroes from the railroad construction gang a few miles away were going to arm and wreak vengeance upon the whites at Womelsdorf, but these stories cannot be verified.

The third negro accused of Wilmoth's murder has not been apprehended. The one that escaped is shot, having been hit by the same ball that killed Chief Wilmoth. Doubtless he will be lynched when captured, as he is said to have been the instigator of the crime. One of the negroes that was lynched this morning had sworn vengeance against Chief Wilmoth last week because the officer had arrested him.

Wilmoth was a son of a former chief of police of Elkins, and was very popular. He disregarded the warning of danger in attempting to arrest the rioting blacks. When he fell from a rifle ball through his heart the negroes ceased fighting one another and fled in all directions. All those that remained were arrested and given immediate trials. If they proved their innocence they were turned loose. Some were held on suspicion.

THE PRESIDENT IS WORKING FOR BETTER MILITIA

Favors Government Aid to Improve the Infantry and Artillery.

GETS WARM WELCOME AT NEW JERSEY CAMP

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Seagirt, N. J., July 24.—No president ever received a more sincere, heartfelt and patriotic welcome than that accorded today to President Roosevelt by the people of New Jersey. On the invitation of Gov Franklin Murphy he visited the encampment of the Second brigade of the National Guard of the state at Seagirt.

Accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. W. Emlen Roosevelt, Miss Christine Roosevelt and Assistant Secretary Loeb, the president left Sagamore Hill at 7 o'clock this morning and boarded the Mayflower, his official naval vessel, from a launch. The run to within sight of Atlantic Highlands was made by the Mayflower in five hours, but the vessel came to anchor there, as the water was too shallow to admit of her approaching the pier.

Just as she anchored the French liner La Savoie, with Secretary Root, Gen. Horace Porter, ambassador to France, and Gen. Leonard Wood on board, passed out to sea. The Mayflower fired a salute of 17 guns in honor of the secretary of war. The liner responded by dipping her colors, while the passengers crowded her upper deck and cheered the president enthusiastically.

Greeted by Many Friends.

On the pier at Atlantic Highlands the president was greeted by Gov. Murphy, Senators Kean and Dryden, Former Secretary Cornelius N. Bliss of New York and the governor's staff in gorgeous uniforms. The party was conveyed by special train to Seagirt in 45 minutes. The stations at Seabright, Monmouth Beach, Long Branch, West End, Elberon, Deal Beach, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Belmar were thronged with people who cheered and waved flags.

Ten thousand people greeted the presidential party at the Seagirt station. President Roosevelt and other distinguished guests were escorted in carriages to the governor's cottage. As he arrived at the cottage a president's salute of 21 guns was fired.

After a brief rest and an informal reception at the cottage, President Roosevelt and Gov. Murphy and staff reviewed the troops in camp, the president being mounted on a magnificent chestnut bay, which he sat perfectly. At the conclusion of the review, Mr. Roosevelt was escorted to a stand adjoining the parade ground, and there addressed the assembled troops and the multitude, which numbered by this time nearly 15,000.

Making the National Guard Better.

President Roosevelt complimented the national guardsmen of New Jersey upon their soldierly bearing and proficiency. He talked upon the importance of their service and their duty to be earnest and alert in preparing for the possibilities of actual warfare. The president said:

"I think that much help can be given to the national guards of the states by the action of the United States government. I want to see the national guard armed with the best and most modern weapons (applause). I want to see the infantry with the Krag-Jorgensen, and I want to see the artillery with the three-point-two gun of the regular army. I am happy to say that a bill has been passed through the lower house which will enable the national government materially to aid the national guard of the different states. At the next session, I firmly believe that we will get it through the United States senate, and then I can guarantee the signature of the president." (Laughter and applause.)

Got His Share of It.

"No doubt some of you were in the Spanish-American war."

A voice: "Yes, many of us."

"The only trouble with that war was that there was not enough war to go around." (Laughter.)

A voice: "You got your slice."

"I did," continued the president. "I was one of the lucky ones."

On the return to the cottage a veteran of the civil war, a Grand Army man, rushed up to the president to grasp his hand. President Roosevelt greeted him cordially and said: "One of the many good results of the Spanish-American war is the appreciation we of the younger generation, now have of the value to you old veterans of that little button which you wear on the lapel of your coat."

At 3:15 p. m. the presidential party boarded again the special train, returned to Atlantic Highlands and proceeded to the Mayflower in a steam launch.

AWFUL DEATHS IN NIGHT WRECK ON PANHANDLE

Three Passengers Consumed by Flames in a Pullman Car.

TWO RAILROAD MEN AMONG THE VICTIMS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Dayton, O., July 24.—Engineer Clark of Xenia, under his engine, burned to a crisp; his fireman of Cincinnati, name unknown, head crushed, right arm broken and both legs cut off; three passengers, two women and a man, burned to death in a Pullman sleeper, and a number of other passengers injured, how many is not known at this hour, is the awful story of the wrecking of the Panhandle limited from St. Louis east-bound tonight at Trebins station, a short distance from Xenia.

A wrecking train was hurried out from Xenia and another from this city with all the doctors that could be secured. The train was flying eastward at highest speed, when the engine struck a loaded coal car, which in the darkness had escaped from the siding in Xenia and had run down grade to the danger point. The engine struck it going at full speed and was turned over, with Engineer Clark underneath. The postal car, combination car and day coach, impelled by the heavy sleepers behind, piled over the engine. Two Pullmans followed and were laid across the track at right-angles.

A gas tank under one of the cars exploded, setting fire to the wreck. The postal car, the coaches and two sleepers were destroyed entirely.

Cries for help could be heard from one end of the Pullmans and the helpless onlookers were compelled to see two women and one man burned to death before their eyes, unable to lend any aid on account of the fierceness of the flames. At that point the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and Panhandle are parallel and both were torn up for a distance of 50 yards, blocking traffic.

GREAT ALBANY FIRE.

Columbia Hotel and a Dozen Manufacturing Buildings Burning—Conflagration Looks Serious.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 25.—(2:15 A. M.)—(Special.)—The largest fire Albany has experienced in years has just broken out on Beaver street, comprising the Columbia hotel and about a dozen different manufacturing buildings. The loss cannot be estimated at this time.

At 2:45 a. m. the buildings occupied by the Wheeler Furniture & Storage Company, Lang stamp works, Albany Rubber Tire Company and the Albany Garment Company are entirely destroyed. The Columbia hotel has started to burn, together with the Albany Elks building.

The entire fire department is at work, but little can be done to get the fire under control.

SCOTS WERE GAY AT A BIG OUTING HELD YESTERDAY

Clan Cameron's Ninth Annual Gathering at Kennywood Attracted 5,000.

MERRY AIRS OF THE PIPES

The wood seemed shaggy and the heath seemed brown in Kennywood park, yesterday, when 5,000 Scotch lads and lassies gathered to enjoy the ninth annual outing of the Clan Cameron. The romantic atmosphere of the Caledonian highlands pervaded everywhere. There was muckle music that recalled memories of the cotter's homes amid the hether fields of far away Scotland, and a score of bagpipes stirred the echoes of the beautiful grove with the folk songs that long have thrilled the hearts of the clansmen in the land of Wallace and of Bruce.

Feats of strength and games revered by Scotchmen for generations were indulged in with prowess that would have deserved the pride of the men of brawn in ancient days. Anon the Highland fling, with all its fantastic variations, was danced with true Scottish spirit. It was a day when the patriotic enthusiasm of the local Scots was vented to its utmost.

These out-of-door gatherings of the clans, under the auspices of the Clan Cameron, have each year increased in magnitude, and yesterday's picnic crowded the big pleasure ground. A true Scotchman's heart, said Burns, is in the highlands wherever he goes, and doubtless few in the throng at Kennywood allowed their feelings to descend to the commonplace.

They were back on the heath again. They talked Scotch dialect in its purity. They kept time to the bagpipes with quaint and whirling steps. They sang the songs of auld lang syne whenever their sweet wills decreed. They tossed the quoits and put the shot with a zest that told plainly that auld acquaintance should not be forgotten.

With universal accord they drank the health of Scotland and reunited the fraternal friendship that distinguishes the sons of Caledonia in Western Pennsylvania.

MORGAN AND PREMIER.

Remarkable Dinner in the House of Commons to American Magnate. British Cabinet Present.

LONDON, July 24.—J. Pierpont Morgan was tonight the guest of honor at a remarkable dinner given in the house of commons by Archibald White Maconochie, member for the East division of Aberdeenshire. On one side of the host sat Mr. Morgan and on the other Premier Balfour. Other guests included United States Ambassador Choate, William St. John Brodrick, secretary of state for war; B. W. Hanbury, president of the board of agriculture; Sir E. H. Carson, solicitor general; Sir Charles Dilke, Sir B. B. Finlay, attorney general; George Wyndham, chief secretary for Ireland; Arnold Foster, financial secretary to the admiralty, and George Westinghouse.

The dinner began at 8 o'clock. The guests sat and chatted until nearly 11 o'clock. The South African war, international yacht races, the shipping combine and King Edward's health, were all discussed in turn. Mr. Morgan and Premier Balfour were both particularly animated.

One of those present said to a representative of the Associated Press: "It was one of the most remarkable gatherings in which I ever took part. Practically a quorum of the cabinet talked over, in the simplest, most open way, the leading American subjects, which now vitally concern both countries."

STORM OF HAIL, DELUGE OF RAIN AND HIGH WIND

Damage in Westmoreland, Fayette and Greene Counties.

RAILROADS BLOCKED, FARMS LAID WASTE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Irwin, Pa., July 24.—Irwin was visited by a hail and windstorm this evening. The damage wrought in less than an hour is conservatively estimated at not less than $200,000.

The terrific downpour of rain caused the North Irwin Water Company dam, south of town, and the Westmoreland Coal Company dam to break. The rush of water into Tinker run and Brush creek did most of the damage. The water in Tinker run swept three bridges away and the water in Brush creek, backing up the former, flooded West Irwin. Here are situated the big Hockensmith Wheel and Mine Car works, the Pennsylvania Electric and Manufacturing Company, the Irwin Lumber Company planing mill and lumber yards. The buildings were submerged to the second story and the residences across the road were flooded so quickly that the inmates had to fly for their lives.

The flood from the broken dam of the Westmoreland Coal Company, east of town, rushed down on the company's car shops at Shafton and entirely flooded its buildings and yards, extending over an area of more than five acres. Cars in the yards were overturned and were floating about like boxes. The buildings were submerged about 10 feet. The damage cannot be told until buildings and yards can be entered.

The Rain Was a Torrent.

The storm was peculiar. An ominous cloud hung over the town for nearly an hour. All around it was the bright sky. At about 4:30 o'clock there was a sharp flash of lightning and a heavy report of thunder. The cloud spread, a few drops of rain fell, a fierce electric storm followed, and then rain began in torrents. Accompanying the rain was hail, which lay an inch thick in places. Wind of hurricane velocity blew for a few minutes. Sides of buildings all over town present a curious appearance, with leaves as flat as can be pressed to the sides of the houses. In Coal hollow big damage has been done, while on the farms corn and oats were stripped and cut to the ground.

SCOTTDALE, PA., July 24.—This section was struck this evening by the heaviest hailstorm ever experienced here. Many thousands of dollars of damage has been done. There was violent electrical disturbance. Rain came down in such quantities that nearly every street was inundated above the curb and many basements flooded, with heavy damage to mercantile stocks.

The American Sheet Steel Company's Scottdale plant received the water washed over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks. The wheel pits of the mill were filled and water was several inches deep on the floor. The mill had to close for the first time in its history from this cause. The hail totally destroyed many crops. Market gardens are nearly complete wrecks. The Pennsylvania trains north and south were over an hour late and their engine pilots were covered with mud and debris.

INSPECTORS WARM UP THE MINE BOSSES

An Attempt to Show That Foremen's Negligence Caused Explosion.

BIG SUSPICION OF OPEN LIGHTS

Assistant Foster Refuses to Say Whether One of These Set Off the Gas.

LAST WITNESSES MAY SOLVE THE MYSTERY

By GIBBONS MARSH,
Staff Correspondent.

Johnstown, Pa., July 24.—The inquiry into the Rolling Mill mine disaster was continued today by Coroner E. L. Miller. The evidence brought out points to possible carelessness of the mine foremen as being responsible for the explosion. Cross-examination of the mine inspectors was directed to bring out lax methods and misjudgment of these men in operating the mine.

The testimony of Thomas Foster, assistant mine foreman, showed that the mine bosses did not believe the mines to be in dangerous condition. Since the explosion many changes have been made in operating the Rolling Mill mine. After the disaster the miners were supplied with safety lamps, and the revolutions of the fans were increased from 102 to 139 a minute. Naked lights cannot be used now in places where the miners formerly used them.

Foster's testimony showed there was standing gas in No. 6 heading where the accident occurred. He said he had no idea it was dangerous, but since the explosion he was convinced that it was. Assistant Foreman Foster was asked by Chief Mine Inspector J. E. Roderick if he knew what caused the explosion. Immediately he replied it was the gas. Chief Roderick said gas would not explode unless it came in contact with a fire or a flame from a light. He asked Foster if he did not know for a fact that a naked light caused the explosion, and Foster refused to reply to the question.

Report of Dead Fire Boss.

The report of the dead fire boss, John Retallick, of July 10 was read to the jury. He reported a large quantity of gas in No. 2 room of No. 6 right heading. The evidence showed the mine bosses were preparing to brattice No. 6 right heading through No. 5 right heading to drive this gas away. Foster said they had been troubled with it for six weeks. In spite of this men were permitted to work in here with open lights.

The mine inspectors were surprised and disgusted when they learned this. They said tonight they knew the cause of the catastrophe, and from their examinations of the witnesses today an open lamp worn in this heading brought about the great loss of life. Their disposition to censure these bosses was apparent at the hearing today.

Nine witnesses were examined by Coroner Miller today. The first sworn was Richard Bennett. He said he had never noticed any gas in No. 6 heading right. His testimony was conflicting and was contradicted by daily reports of Fire Boss John Retallick. He was soon excused by Coroner Miller from testifying further.

Two other witnesses were sworn and testified about rescuing the men from the mine.

Foreman Henry L. Rogers was then sworn. He is still weak from his experience in the explosion. His testimony was inconsistent with other facts that have been brought out. This afternoon he was not present when called by Coroner Miller. The mine officials said he was too ill to testify any further today, and he was sent home. Chief Mine Inspector Roderick will have him summoned again tomorrow.

Retallick Reported Gas.

While he was on the stand the report of Fire Boss Retallick on July 10 was read to the jury. It reads:

"Gas on falls in 6 and 7 west; also on falls 4 and 6 east. Ventilation fair."

Inspector C. E. Ross asked him if he let the men go into these places after reading the report. Rogers replied that he had.

The inquiry was adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Thomas J. Lewis was the first man sworn at the afternoon session. He had been employed in the mine for eight years and knew of the gas in No. 6 heading right. Lewis could not recall seeing any open lights in this place, but when examined by Inspector Ross, said he found no safety lights about the dead men in this place. Lewis has been appointed fire boss to succeed Fire Boss Tomlinson, who was suffocated in the disaster.

Assistant Foreman Thomas Foster was sworn. He had worked in the mine for 15 years. He was in the ill-fated No. 6 heading 20 minutes before the explosion. Foster testified he had never seen any open lights used in this place, but did not find any safety lamps among the dead men found in this part of the mine. Foster was present at the consultation of the fire bosses on the morning of July 10. Fire Boss John Retallick reported gas in the falls in No. 6 heading right.

"Foreman Rogers asked Retallick how the falls were in No. 6," said Foster, "and Retallick replied, 'just the same.'"

Foster told the jury he had not considered this as "standing gas," which is considered most dangerous. Inspector Ross asked him what he thought about it since the explosion, and Foster replied he was convinced this was standing gas and was most dangerous for the men working there.

"We expected a little trouble with this gas and were preparing an opening from No. 2 room to No. 10 room to drive it away," he said.

The Question of Open Lights.

Inspector Ross asked him if there were not men working with open lights in No. 2 room in No. 6 heading, during an opening to drive this gas out. He said the men were working there, but could not remember if they had open lights. Inspector Ross tried to show the jury by Foster's testimony the possibility of the explosion occurring in this manner. When the men broke through the wall the air immediately forced the gas through upon

TWO SURPRISES IN THE MILLER LUNACY TRIAL

EVIDENCE IS ALL BEFORE THE JURY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Franklin, Pa., July 24.—After being exposed to the gaze of a morbidly curious public for nearly three weeks, the Miller lunacy testimony closed this afternoon. Six jurors will formally announce on Monday, probably, whether Mrs. Miller is legally a lunatic or not. Ninety-nine per cent of the people of Franklin are glad that the case is over and will breathe a sigh of relief when the matter is buried with the rendering of the verdict next week.

Mrs. Miller had completed her case at noon, but the other side took up the afternoon session with rebuttal testimony. Counsel aimed chiefly at Mrs. Miller's testimony, which was openly contradicted by the two nurses, Miss Shibley and Miss Gordon. At the request of Mrs. Miller's counsel the making of the arguments to the jury was postponed until Monday.

The address on behalf of Gen. Miller will be made by the Hon. J. H. Osmer and for the opposing side by the Hon. James Denton Hancock.

Counsel for Mrs. Miller sprang a surprise this morning by calling Gen. Miller to testify. Although he was subpoenaed on behalf of the respondent, Mrs. Miller's counsel objected to his testifying when called by his own attorneys on Tuesday. Hence the surprise when he was called today by the same persons who objected to him two days ago.

Gen. Miller Excused.

Counsel for Gen. Miller demanded of the other side an offer of what they expected to prove by the witness. Mr. Osmer suspected the nature of the questions and asked that the jury retire to another room for fear that the offer might influence their verdict. The commissioner granted the request.

Mr. Hancock stated that they desired to show by the witness that he had offered his wife $200,000, or $20,000 a year, if she would agree to a separation; this for the purpose of showing that the relator regarded his wife as competent to transact business. The offer caused a little sensation, Commissioner Hughes being so surprised that he asked Mr. Hancock if he made the offer in good faith.

Objecting to the offer, Mr. Osmer stated that Gen. Miller was not on trial in this case. He stated further that the offer to Mrs. Miller was made through her attorney and with the express condition that a trustee be appointed to care for her person and property. This provision, he said, indicated that Gen. Miller thought his wife insane. The commissioner ruled that the offer was incompetent and the general, therefore, was not called.

Another surprise of the session was the calling of Mrs. Miller by counsel for Gen. Miller. When Mrs. Miller was examined by her own counsel on Tuesday the other side waived the privilege of cross-examining her for the time being, and it was not thought that she would be called again.

Mrs. Miller Indisposed.

When the call was made for Mrs. Miller her counsel stated that she had just gone to luncheon, and, at any rate, was feeling rather indisposed. However, they promised to have their client present in the afternoon.

At 2 o'clock Mrs. Miller appeared. When she was called by the relator's attorneys it was announced that while Mrs. Miller was present she was still indisposed. The other side did not insist that she take the stand. It was not announced what they desired to know of Mrs. Miller.

The testimony on behalf of Mrs. Miller this morning took the same trend as yesterday, neighbors being the chief witnesses. Miss Ethel Williams testified that she was nurse for Mrs. Miller's daughter in May last and that Mrs. Miller called at the house to see the sick children. She administered to them and conducted herself in a rational manner.

Mrs. Clara Williams, a dressmaker, stated that Mrs. Miller always showed tact in selecting dress materials and transacted her business affairs in a business-like way. Miss Lulu Coulson, another dressmaker, testified to about the same thing. Miss Coulson, on cross-examination, stated that Mrs. Miller several years ago accused her of theft.

Mrs. J. E. Adams swore that she had known Mrs. Miller for many years and that she had always acted rationally and given no indications of mental trouble.

Mrs. J. J. Clock in her testimony their open lights. Foster admitted the opening had been made, but did not believe the men had open lights. Chief Inspector Roderick interposed here and asked him what caused the explosion.

"Gas," he replied.

"The gas will not explode alone," said the chief inspector.

"I know that," said Foster.

"Then, if all the men had safety lamps on, they would not have ignited the gas, so how could the explosion occur?"

Foster refused to answer this question, and Coroner Miller did not force him to do so. This witness said he instructed men about blasting, and considered about 10 per cent of the miners were competent to do this kind of work. He said the officers in the mine had made several changes since the explosion.

Changed His Opinion of the Mine.

"We always considered the mine safe," he said, "because we never had a serious accident in the history of the mine until July 10. I am now convinced that the mine was dangerous."

Thomas Wallace was sworn. Coroner Miller asked him if he could see the gas in the mine.

"I could not with the naked eye," he replied.

He searched for bodies in the mine and saw the headless man. He was found in No. 6 heading. Wallace said there were no safety lamps lying about his body. He told the jury he also found a naked man, and could not tell whether he had been burned or not.

Wallace was summoned by the coroner to tell whether the men found in this heading were burned or if they met death by suffocation. The jury was unable to get any satisfactory information from him.

Harvey Livingstone testified that he was employed to run the fan engine at Mill creek. The fan had been stopped on one occasion for 20 minutes, the engine having broken down. When he attempted to call up the mine office inside he could not make any connection with it. He said he had no other means to warn them. Livingstone told the jury no means were adopted to warn these men until after the explosion. Now several telephone connections have been made with the interior.

Livingstone said the revolutions of the fan had been increased 20 more a minute since the disaster.

Coroner Miller then adjourned the inquest until 9 o'clock tomorrow.

Inspectors May Uncover Mystery.

At the conclusion of the proceedings Coroner Miller said he thought the inquest would continue through Saturday. He did not expect to call the mine inspectors to the stand until that time. They will be the last witnesses, and the coroner expects them to tell the cause of the explosion.

"When I call the state mine inspectors to testify," said the coroner, "they will tell what caused the explosion. I think that by that time they will be able to name the man who lighted the gas, the room and heading in which he was at the time, and just how the gas was ignited. I am waiting for them to do that. As I have said before, I have not made any effort to learn these facts myself, depending upon the inspectors to tell this to the jury."

One of the inspectors will testify and will tell the result of the investigation the four made in the mine. The other three will be called to the stand to answer any questions that may follow and will corroborate the statements made by the first one called. Who this will be is not known.

THE WEATHER.

Showers are predicted for Pittsburgh and vicinity for today and tomorrow by the Washington weather bureau. If the prediction proves true there will probably be a slight fall in the temperature in this section during the next few days, as cool atmosphere generally accompanies rain. Yesterday the maximum temperature was the same as on Wednesday, 82 degrees. The minimum was 65. There was a heavy downpour of rain in East Liberty last night, but none fell in the city.

Every workingman who reads this announcement owes it to himself to attend this sale, for practically any instrument you buy can be had at a saving of from one-third to one-half the regular price. Don't waste your own time or your children's patience, by purchasing such a piano as is ordinarily sold at a low price—get one of the best at Hamilton's and pay for it in easy installments, to fit your convenience.

WILKINSBURG IS ALL STIRRED UP OVER A DOG CASE

Grieving Over Loss of Valuable St. Bernard, Mrs. Wendler Lost 29 Pounds.

ARREST PROMINENT MAN

L. Kercher Says He Bought the Dog the Wendlers Say Is Theirs from a Sewickley Man—Discrepancies in Testimony—Dog Worth $5,000.

Grief over the loss of a valuable St. Bernard dog has caused Mrs. J. H. Wendler of Wilkinsburg to lose 29 pounds in weight since March 29, according to the statement of her husband, the druggist at the corner of Brushton avenue and Tioga street.

Yesterday L. Kercher of No. 638 Peebles street, Wilkinsburg, was arrested, charged with the theft of the dog. The case is a most extraordinary one and, owing to the value of the animal and the prominence of the parties to the suit, is exciting widespread interest. Mr. Wendler, in making information against Kercher before Justice Creelman of Wilkinsburg, stated under oath that the value of the animal was $5,000.

The dog was secured by the Wendlers about 10 months ago from Minnesota. It has a long pedigree and its registry number at the Allegheny county courthouse, where it is recorded, is "262." On the evening of March 29 "Rex," as the dog is known, mysteriously disappeared. A search was instituted for the missing animal which lasted for more than a month, but no trace of it could be found, although advertisements were inserted in all the newspapers and detectives were employed on the case.

Got a Clue Last Week.

Not until last Wednesday did Mr. and Mrs. Wendler obtain a clue as to the whereabouts of their valuable canine. They heard that a dog answering the description of their lost pet was in possession of Kercher. They went to the home and saw the dog, which they claim is theirs, chained in the back yard.

Kercher was asked to surrender the animal, which, it is alleged, he refused to do, claiming that he had bought it from A. C. Walker, a Sewickley druggist. Wendler thereupon consulted an attorney and the result was the swearing out of the warrant for Kercher's arrest.

The hearing took place last evening before Justice Creelman. Mrs. Wendler, in giving her testimony, described minutely all the marks on the lost dog, even detailing an extra toe on one of the animal's feet, which she claims is possessed by the canine she and her husband found in Kercher's back yard.

Dog Glad to See Mrs. Wendler.

She also described how "Rex," when she called his name, bounded upon her, kissed her face and came near knocking her down. She, as well as her husband, were positive in their identification.

Kercher offered in his own defense a postal card written him by the Sewickley druggist, under date of March 1, telling him to come for the dog for which he had been dickering, and also a receipt from Walker, showing that he (Kercher) had bought a St. Bernard dog from Walker, paying therefor a balance of $80. Kercher testified that he had previously paid Walker $20 to bind the bargain. Kercher gave a description of the dog similar, in most respects, to that given by Mr. and Mrs. Wendler.

Wendler asked the witness how he accounted for the date of the tag found on the dog in the back yard, which was 1901, when he had already testified that the had bought the dog from Walker during March, 1902.

Some Apparent Discrepancies.

The missing dog is only 11 months old, while, according to a written statement given Wendler by Walker and which was produced in court, the dog he sold Kercher was more than a year old. He also stated that the animal he sold Kercher was of the shaggy variety, while the dog now in Kercher's possession is a smooth-coated specimen, dogs of this kind being very rare.

The photograph of the animal that Druggist Walker sold to Kercher was also produced and did not bear certain distinguishing marks about the head that all the witnesses, including the defendant, testified were borne by the animal now in Kercher's possession.

Although Justice Creelman had previously released Kercher on his own recognizance, the testimony was of such a nature that he held Kercher in the sum of $500 for a further hearing next Thursday evening. At that time the dog will be produced in court upon the order of Justice Creelman, and a number of new witnesses, including Druggist Walker and members of his family of Sewickley, will be summoned to testify in the case.

LESTER BERBERICH WAS FOUND BETWEEN TWO LOGS LAST NIGHT

Chubby Lester Berberich, the sweet-faced 3-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berberich of No. 841 Vista street, Allegheny, slept soundly last night in his mother's arms. And only a mother can tell how happy that mother was, after more than 24 hours of worrying and wondering where the little fellow was since she missed him suddenly Wednesday afternoon in Calhoun park, where the family had been attending a church picnic.

LITTLE LESTER BERBERICH,
Who Was Lost for Over 24 Hours, but Was Found at Last, Chubby and Happy as Ever.

"I like you, mamma," the little fellow exclaimed as he nestled close to her bosom a few moments after 10 o'clock last night. The joy of the mother was unbounded when the happy father ran up a long flight of stairs with Lester in his arms, and scores of the neighbors behind him, cheering for very joy. The boy, according to the story told to the traction officials, was found about dusk last evening between two logs nearly a mile from Calhoun park. Supt. Thomas Manning was making his rounds when two small boys from a neighboring farm came up to him, saying, "We're found a boy; we've found a boy!"

Surmising that it was the Berberich boy they referred to, Manning at once procured a wagon and drove to the farm, where he found Lester just as clean, sweet and chubby as when he started for the picnic. The people at the farmhouse said they had found the boy between two logs in a field opposite theirs. They carried him to the farm, washed and fed him, then told the boys to go to the park and tell Supt. Manning.

Although the parents of the boy are glad to have their boy home again, they maintain that he was kidnaped. The father is particularly strong on this point. "I cannot be convinced that my boy was not kidnaped," he said last night to a Gazette reporter. "It's hardly possible that a 3-year-old child could find its way across fields and finally lay down between two logs for a whole night and a day. I maintain that he was kidnaped."

Berberich's opinion is strengthened, he maintains, by the fact that the farm hands demanded pay for the care they gave the boy. This message was delivered to him by the traction officials, he says. The little chap's story, for he tells a story in his own baby fashion, further confirmed the parents' opinion. "I dot lots milk, mamma," he said, "an' a ride on a donkey, an' a man took me away far."

The picture of the child which the Gazette publishes was taken last week and shows him just as he is, with his rough eyes and flaxen hair.

JAMES KENNEDY IS NAMED FOR CONGRESS

A Youngstown Man Is the Choice of the Salem Convention.

REQUIRED 108 BALLOTS

Mahoning County Gets the Representative for the First Time in Many Years—Congressman Tayler a Visitor in Pittsburgh.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Salem, O., July 24.—For the second time in 30 years Mahoning county, as a part of the Eighteenth Ohio, McKinley's old congressional district, has secured the nomination of one of her citizens. James Kennedy, for congress, and will be favored with the representative in the lower house of the national legislature. Within that time Stark county has had the representative 14 years and Columbiana 12, while the district was gerrymandered under Democratic legislation and the honor did not fall to either of the counties for two years. From this viewpoint Mahoning county is the logical beneficiary at this time.

On the 208th ballot today, during the fourth session of the convention, Mr. Kennedy received a majority vote of the delegates and was declared the nominee. The balloting began yesterday afternoon, and from the first to the 201st, which was cast about 10 o'clock this morning, the vote stood precisely the same, as follows: Speaker, Columbiana, 99; Kennedy, Mahoning, 89; Smith, Stark, 61; Grant, Stark, 47; Phelps, Stark, 25. After that and up to the 208th the Phelps and Smith men began to slip over to Kennedy, until, on the final ballot this was the result: Kennedy, 177; Speaker, 100; Grant, 47.

The understanding through which this result was attained was reached last night about midnight, although it did not leak out until the work of the convention was about over.

Mr. Kennedy is 49 years of age. He is the son of Thomas W. and Margaret Truesdale Kennedy, both deceased, and was born in Poland township, Mahoning county. Mr. Kennedy attended the district school and later the seminary of Poland, where he prepared himself for college. He is a graduate of Westminster college, class of '78. After leaving college he took up the study of law in the office of Judge George F. Arrel, who placed his name in nomination, and was admitted in 1879. In the same year Mr. Kennedy began the practice of law in Youngstown, and for 20 years has been regarded as one of the city's ablest practitioners at the bar.

Taylor in Pittsburgh.

Congressman R. W. Tayler, accompanied by Mrs. Tayler, came to Pittsburgh yesterday after the convention closed, and registered at the Lincoln. Mr. Tayler said this visit was entirely for private business of no political or other public interest. He spoke freely of the work of the convention. "Mahoning county will be much pleased with the result, I have no doubt," he said. "Personally, I am well satisfied with the result. Mr. Kennedy is an excellent candidate, and his nomination insures his election, since there is a normal Republican majority of 7,000 out of a total vote of 50,000. He is a brother of Julian Kennedy, the well-known engineer of Pittsburgh.

"James Kennedy, the nominee, must be distinguished from his cousin, Judge James B. Kennedy, also of Youngstown. The nominee is sometimes known as 'Fat Jim,' for this purpose."

TWO SURPRISES IN MILLER LUNACY TRIAL

stated that her son belonged to Mrs. Miller's temperance class, and that when he was sick Mrs. Miller called on him; that she was lady-like and showed no peculiarities.

Nurses Deny Testimony.

Anson J. Sibley, a cousin of Mrs. Miller, testified that his uncle, Lucien Sibley, was not insane, as the Hon. Joseph C. Sibley had testified. He admitted on cross-examination, however, that Joseph Sibley was in a better position to judge the uncle's condition of mind than he.

Before closing the respondent's case, Mr. Hancock offered in evidence deeds made by Gen. Miller and his wife to other persons, indicating thereby that he regarded Mrs. Miller as competent to execute a deed. The commissioner held that the testimony was illegal, and it was accordingly ruled out.

In rebuttal Gen. Miller's counsel called Miss Gordon and Miss Sibley, the nurses, against whose restraint a great share of the respondent's testimony has been directed. Mrs. Miller's story on the stand was taken piece by piece by the two witnesses and flatly contradicted. They denied that they had ever illtreated Mrs. Miller; that they had ever opened her letters; that they had ever kept her away from her husband. On the contrary, they had always treated her kindly and exerted no more force than was necessary to fulfill the orders of the respondent's brother, the Hon. Joseph C. Sibley.

They said they had known Mrs. Miller to make scars on her own arm and blame it on them. Instead of keeping her away from church, as Mrs. Miller alleged, they had agreed to take her, but she refused to go because her soul was lost, she said. When the testimony of these witnesses had closed Mr. Osmer wanted to go ahead with the arguments, but Mr. Hancock desired to look over the testimony and the commissioner adjourned the inquisition until Monday.

FIREMEN IN DANGER OF BEING SHOT AT A FIRE

Exciting Time in East End When Armory of Co. F, Fourteenth Regiment Was Destroyed.

There was an exciting fire early last night in the two-story frame building, at Nos. 147 and 149 Frankstown avenue, East End, occupied by Louis Varga as a restaurant, the C. C. Myers Printing Company, the Bond Street Baptist church and Company F of the Fourteenth regiment, N. G. P.

The fire started in the armory, but the cause is unknown. The building is owned by Louis Vilsack, who places his loss at $1,000.

The loss to Company F could not be estimated last evening, but it will probably amount to about $3,000 in uniforms, equipments, arms, etc.

The company had but recently returned from camp and had brought back 2,000 rounds of loaded cartridges and 5,000 rounds of blanks, and although the fire burned near them, there was no explosion.

The company pay rolls were in the armory at the time of the fire, but these were saved by Privates Frank and Guss, who during the night stood guard over the ruins.

STRONG DENIES HE TOOK MONEY FROM MAY YOHE

Captain Reaches England as Actress Sails from New York.

MAY MEET FACE TO FACE

It Is Thought the Erstwhile Lovers Will Become Reunited in Japan. Woman Says She Has Left America for All Time.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 24.—Putnam Bradlee Strong of New York arrived in London this afternoon with the St. Paul's passengers and went to a private West End hotel. In conversation with a representative of the Associated Press this evening he said he had pawned about $8,400 worth of May Yohe's jewelry at her request and for her benefit after they returned from Japan, and that she had received the entire proceeds from him at the time the jewels were pawned.

"I have never had one dollar of May Yohe's money and no person knows it better than she," he continued.

"The money on which I am now traveling was received from the sale of my library, and of this fact May Yohe is also aware. I have done many foolish and most unwise things, but I have not been criminal.

"As to my future movements, I do not think they should interest any one greatly, but I will say that I purpose living quietly and will endeavor to redeem my good name.

"As to the story that I rifled her safety deposit box, that is absurd on its face. May Yohe never had any safety deposit box that I know of, and if she had one any banker could tell you that without her authority I could never have had access to it. I had one in my own name at the Knickerbocker Trust Company, which I suppose my family has opened, as I gave them full authority to do so."

May Yohe Sails for Europe.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Special.)—Under an assumed name, May Yohe sailed for Europe on the Fuerst Bismarck today. Mrs. Yohe, her mother, and the Japanese maid will forsake the cottage at Hastings within a few days, and start west. The belief is growing that within a few weeks the recent occupants of the cottage will be reunited in Japan.

Miss Yohe purchased her ticket on Wednesday from a tourist agency. It had been her intention to take a friend with her, and she purchased tickets for herself, as "Mrs. Bachellor" and a companion, but at the last moment this plan was changed, and she had the price of the second ticket placed to her credit with the steamship company.

Many believe that Miss Yohe wanted to receive word of the safe arrival of Strong in England before she sailed, but that this is not the case is demonstrated by the fact that she purchased her steamship tickets before the St. Paul, on which Capt. Strong sailed a week ago, reached Southampton. At the same time, it is true that Miss Yohe received a cable dispatch from Southampton this morning, and it is believed that it was from the man she had previously accused of having stolen her jewels.

Is Done With Strong.

In the letter which was written yesterday Miss Yohe said:

You will be surprised, after our last conversation, to learn that I am going to sail on the Fuerst Bismarck this morning. I made up my mind to this step after seeing you yesterday, and at once purchased the tickets. Mamma remains here for a few days, but she will join me soon. I am confident that you will not approve of what I am doing, but I cannot always take your advice. Believe me, I have no intention of attempting to see "Patty," and I will not receive him if he attempts to see me, which is unlikely. He may go his way and I will go mine.

I shall stop in Paris for a few days, possibly a week—not longer. I will go to Genoa and get my stuff that is there, and will then go on to Yokohama. You know that I have believed that he would go to Japan, and I am still of that opinion. I also know that I like the country, so that I shall not let him keep me away.

I hope to see you in Japan some time, and if I do I will make it pleasant for you. If not, I suppose that we will never meet again. I certainly shall never return to this country. I am disgusted with the entire thing, and my only regret is that I did not remain in Japan when I was there.

FIVE MINUTES' START TOO MUCH FOR THE POLICE

Achsa King's Slayer Is Still at Large and Likely to Remain So.

FEW NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Inspector Fred Will Finds Women Who Were With Murdered Woman Before Killing and Street Car Conductor Who Saw Couple Together.

After over 30 hours' work on a murder which was committed almost within the shadow of the public safety building the entire force of detectives and bureau of police of Pittsburgh have been unable to capture a murderer, who escaped from under their very eyes.

Achsa King was foully slain by a male assassin in a rear drinking room in William Curran's saloon, at the corner of Sixth and Wylie avenues, at 5:10 o'clock, Wednesday evening. The police were notified of the murder five minutes after it happened. The saloon where the crime was committed was surrounded with policemen and detectives in less than 10 minutes after the murder.

Adequate descriptions of the man who committed the crime were furnished by the several eye witnesses, who saw the King woman and her male companion together before the tragedy occurred, and still the police are unable to unravel the secret, and learn who Achsa King's slayer is.

The farcical part of the story is that the slayer of the King woman walked past policemen and detectives in his flight and still was not apprehended.

Nothing New Learned.

Superintendent of Police John McAleese stated last night that there was not a line of news developed during the day. He said the men were hard at work on the case and hoped to be able to land the murderer, and wound up with an insinuation that the assassin might never be captured and brought to justice.

Not less than a score of persons were brought to police and detective headquarters yesterday afternoon and last night. Any one who had ever seen the King woman or known her was brought to Central station. The police learned absolutely nothing from these persons that they did not know before.

The latest information the police bureau would give out was that the man who is supposed to have been guilty of the crime is an utter stranger in Pittsburgh. The stranger was seen by a number of people. The descriptions given of him are almost one and the same. He is a dissolute character, that can be learned from his personal appearance and actions while with the King woman.

Will Secured Clews.

Inspector Fred Will worked hard on the case yesterday. He made about all the headway gained by the police and detective bureaus. He captured one of the most important persons who is supposed to have been, in a manner, connected with the case. He unraveled the story of the woman's travels during Wednesday, and last night brought several men to the station house who had seen the woman and were familiar with her movements.

Albert S. Johnston, conductor No. 1631 of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, saw the King woman and her companion board a Butler street car at Thirty-eighth street, Wednesday afternoon. He said both the man and woman were so drunk that they fell asleep on the street car coming into the city.

He wakened them up at Cecil alley and Liberty street, and they left the car then. This was about 4:15 o'clock. From here the two went to Decatur street and then to Union street, and entered Dasch's saloon. Inspector Will learned that the man did not want to go into the saloon, but the woman lead the way and her companion followed.

Theories of Police.

That the murder was premeditated there is not the least doubt in the minds of the police. They believe the man went into the saloon with the knife up his sleeve, as the preliminary evidence of the Reed woman does not go to show that he reached into his pocket for the weapon.

On his visit to the scene of the crime yesterday Inspector Fred Will learned that a party of four, two men and two women had been drinking in Nill & Knee's saloon in Wylie avenue an hour or so before the tragedy occurred. He found the name of the other woman in the case, Annie Collins, and arrested her and locked her up as a witness.

The Collins woman, so it is alleged, was just released from the workhouse last Monday. She had been employed, previous to that time as a domestic in the Mercy hospital. She was sent up on a charge of disorderly conduct. She admitted at the police station that she knew the King woman and had been with her in the saloon during the afternoon. She also furnished a good description of both men, and this is what the police were said to have been working on last night.

Suspect Three Men.

Superintendent McAleese still clung to his three men theory. He insists that more than one man was connected with the crime, but neither he nor any of his men have been, thus far, able to locate anyone who had any connection with the affair.

It was said last night that the Collins woman had told the police the name of the man she was with during the afternoon, but the closest search on the part of the detectives has failed to locate him. At least three men are said to be missing from the city on account of the murder. They are all said to have been friends of the King woman, and fear they are suspected.

Strickler Rothermel of McKeesport arrested by the police a few hours after the murder, was released shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Mrs. Kate Atcheson of No. 3810 Butler street called at the morgue yesterday afternoon and claimed her sister's remains. She had them sent to an undertaker's and prepared for burial. Mrs. Atcheson told the last time she saw her sister was about 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when she left her home in company with a man whom she did not know. Both were intoxicated, she said.

The latest move of the police is to locate James Stanton. They believe he is in Cleveland. If he is found he will probably be brought to Pittsburgh and held, until it is determined who the murderer is.

BRYAN REVEALS STRONG ENMITY TO CLEVELAND

Massachusetts Speech Directed Against the New York Harmony Dinner.

TALK OF ARISTOCRATS

He Says There Can Be No Harmony With Men Whose Aims Are Not Democratic—His Issues Imperialism, Trusts and Injunctions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Nantasket, Mass., July 24.—William J. Bryan was the last but chief speaker at a great Democratic meeting this afternoon. The New England Democratic league gave a banquet in the Rockland hotel. Afterward the speech-making took place in a large tent on the shore of the bay. Mayor Collins of Boston presided and read letters from George S. Boutwell of Massachusetts and Senator Bailey of Texas. The speakers preceding Mr. Bryan were Edward M. Shepard, recently Democratic candidate for mayor of New York, and Senator E. W. Carmack of Tennessee. Mr. Bryan devoted a great deal of his speech to recent talk of harmony in the party, started by the New York Tilden club's dinner, where Cleveland and Hill were the speakers.

After alluding to the euphony of the word "harmony" and its beauty as an ideal, Mr. Bryan said:

"Harmony in government is the result of fixed and unchangeable rules. Jefferson states two of these rules, namely, absolute acquiescence in the will of the majority and frequent elections. The second aids the first by giving hope of a remedy from present ills, however grievous. If he were living today his observation would probably suggest a third rule, namely, the ascertainment of the will of the majority by methods so direct, so fair and so honest that the minority cannot doubt that that will has been actually expressed."

Issues of the Present.

He then dilated on Jefferson's statement that there are but two permanent parties in every government, the aristocratic and the democratic, and said: "There can always be harmony among Democrats who believe in a government of the people and are willing that all the departments of the government shall be operated by the people and for the benefit of the people. Differences of the mind can be reconciled; differences of purpose cannot. Between one who is at heart an aristocrat and one who is in reality a Democrat there is a great gulf fixed. And, it may be added, among the aristocrats there will be found the same division that exists among the beasts of prey—some have the courage of the lion, and others the cunning and treachery of the fox, but they can hunt together if their object is spoil, whether it be avowed or concealed.

"To attempt to patch up an apparent harmony between those who are not in sympathy with Democratic purposes is not only a waste of time, but would prove disastrous. The men who deserted the party in 1896 may be divided into two classes, those who left because they understood the issue presented and those who left because they did not understand the real nature of the contest. Until the former are completely changed in their sympathies they cannot return to the party without injuring it."

Jab at Democratic Aristocrats.

Mr. Bryan reviewed the national campaigns of 1892, 1896 and 1900, giving his views of the causes of Democratic defeat in the last two contests. He then said:

Since the election of 1900, imperialism is more openly avowed and imperialistic methods more boldly entered upon because the administration could point to that election as an apparent indorsement, although the party leaders at that time vehemently denied imperialistic intent.

Since the election of 1900 the trusts have grown and flourished under the Republican administration, as might have been expected. Almost two years have elapsed since the last presidential election, and no legislative attempt has been made to interfere with them, and the executive efforts, instead of being directed toward the enforcement of criminal statutes, are confined to the equity side of the court and these efforts have not in the least retarded the formation of new combines.

Since the election, a Republican congress has turned a deaf ear to the laborer's cry for relief from government by injunction; and a Republican senate has refused to grant the demand of the people for the election of United States senators by a direct vote.

And all the while an exorbitant tariff is working injustice to the consumers and enabling the beneficiaries of protection to sell at home at a high price and compete in foreign markets at a lower price.

TALKED TO NEWSBOYS.

Bryan Spoke at Boston on Education and Economy—Flaw in American Prosperity.

BOSTON, July 24.—Before leaving Boston for the Democratic league dinner at Nantasket today W. J. Bryan addressed the newsboys of Boston at Tremont Temple. He said in part:

"I go on the theory that the happiness we get in life we get out of what we do for others, and not out of what is done for us.

"I don't like to talk to people, whether they are men or boys, without leaving some idea. I have known an idea to revolutionize a man's whole being, and not only that, but a whole community, a state, a nation, or the world.

"You boys, all of you, are passing through that period of life which ought to be the period of schools. The first thought I have to suggest to you is that you cannot get too much of education. I know that it is necessary for you to work in order to support father, mother or sister or brother. And one of my condemnations against the present industrial system is for this reason—that when they tell you we are prosperous, I tell them that this country will never be prosperous until the father can earn enough to send his children to school instead of sending them to work.

"My second thought is that I want you to accustom yourselves to save. The boy who saves his money is enabling himself to become his own master. I object to the trusts because they destroy individual enterprises."

Spread of the Trolley in Indiana.

WARSAW, IND., July 24.—The city council today granted a franchise to the Winona, Warsaw, Elkhart and South Bend Traction Company to construct an electric railway connecting the cities named. The projectors are Ohio men now building the Fort Wayne, Dayton & Cincinnati traction line. The company gave bond to have a line 55 miles long in operation in 18 months. This line will form a link in the system connecting Cincinnati and Chicago.

LILY OELRICHS THE BRIDE OF A SAN FRANCISCO MAN

MRS. P. D. MARTIN,
Who Was Miss Lily Oelrichs.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Newport, R. I., July 24.—Newport's sun has seldom shone—and the sun really did shine, although it looked very close to raining several times—upon a prettier bride than Miss Lily Oelrichs, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs, who was married today to Peter D. Martin of San Francisco.

The bride entered the church with her father. She wore a superb gown of heavy ivory satin covered with chiffon in graduated tucks. It was made high at the neck, the bodice being covered with Venetian point. At the neck was worn a collar of diamonds and pearls, the bridegroom's gift. A full court train of satin hung from the shoulders. Her bouquet, which she carried on the left arm, was a sheaf of gardenias and natural orange blossoms. The bride's attendants were entirely in white.

Mr. Martin met the bride at the altar rail. He was attended by his brother, Henry Martin of San Francisco.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Louis J. Deady, rector of the church, assisted by Dr. W. A. Doran.

LARK ENDS AFTER TWENTY YEARS

JOHN FRANZ HAS PROMISED TO DISCARD FEMININE ATTIRE.

At Hearing Yesterday He Told How, 20 Years Ago, He and a Girl Cousin Exchanged Attire—Will Now Support His Family.

John Henry Franz, the man who for 20 years has masqueraded on moonlight evenings in women's clothes, and whose case was brought to a climax by a charge of having abused his wife because she refused to go over to a Pittsburgh store and buy him a handsome dress skirt marked down from $6.70 to $2.50, appeared for a hearing before Alderman Charles von Moss, in Allegheny, yesterday. Franz pleaded guilty and was fined $10. He paid the money and was let go, but not before the agent of the Anti-Cruelty society, P. L. Kuntz, made him sign an agreement to be good and treat his family right.

Franz has a wife and family, including a daughter 22 years old, well respected by the neighbors in Lautner street, Allegheny. His wife alleged that he spent all his wages for women's finery and would not support her and the children. Franz admitted the impeachment.

He lost some land he had traded for and it affected his mind.

About 20 years ago a female cousin payed the family a visit and donned his clothes, he putting on hers for a lark. She called him Lizzie, he dubbed her Charley, and ever since he could not resist the temptation to wear a picture hat, with a lovely ostrich plume, silk stockings with silver-buckled supporters, and other feminine finery. It has been demonstrated, however, that when thus disguised, he never wandered far from home and frequently sat on the doorstep, coquettishly waving a hand-painted fan.

Two hundred persons gathered before the alderman's office yesterday afternoon and cheered Franz when Kuntz brought him over from jail. Franz had a six days' growth of beard on his face and wore no veil. After a consultation he pleaded guilty to the charge of cruelty to his children, in failing to provide for them.

TAUNTED SONS AS "BLACK SHEEP"

ROBERT CHALMERS WAS ANGRY WHEN WIFE DISCHARGED HIM.

His Boys, Who Took His Place, Were Called Scabs and Black Sheep—Some Interesting Family History Revealed at Hearing.

The peculiar business relations of the Chalmers family of No. 1119 Glenn avenue, in Crab hollow, Wilkinsburg, were ventilated before Alderman Charles Von Moss of Allegheny yesterday. Robert Chalmers was fined $10 by the alderman for cruelty, it being charged that he abused his children. The money was paid.

The testimony showed that up to two years ago Chalmers, a coal miner, had not worked for 17 years. Some years ago his wife bought a cow out of the proceeds of the washtub, and in the course of years, the offspring of the original cow and young heifers bought brought the size of the herd up to 11 milk-givers. Two years ago Mrs. Chalmers complained to the Anti-Cruelty society that her husband got drunk and abused her. He pleaded guilty, paid a fine of $10 and he signed an agreement to go to work and take the pledge.

Chalmers, according to further testimony, worked seven weeks repairing Wilkinsburg's streets; then he got tired and loafed. The wife made a proposition, that if he would help her in the dairy she would pay him $18 a month and board him. She collected the bills herself, as she did not wish to expose him to the temptation of handling money. This arrangement continued, until it finally dawned on Mrs. Chalmers that she had the worst end of the bargain, so she put her two sons in his place.

It is understood that the boys' lives were made miserable. While driving the cows to pasture they would hear a voice hissing: "Scabs! Taking your father's job away. Bah, blacksheep!" The boys thought it was their father who was annoying them, and they told their mother, with the result that she went before the Anti-Cruelty society again and Agent P. L. Kuntz went before Alderman Von Moss.

JUDGE JACKSON SENDS TO JAIL SIX AGITATORS

Haggerty and Other Miners' Leaders Punished for Contempt of Court.

MOTHER JONES SPARED

Conviction Held Over Her Head—Her Utterances and Conduct of Other Union Leaders Severely Condemned.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Parkersburg, W. V., July 24.—Judge Jackson, sitting in the United States district court, today decided that 12 persons connected with the United Mine Workers had been guilty of contempt of his injunction of June 19, prohibiting meetings or other demonstrations near mines or the homes of working miners in Harrison county. The following sentences were imposed:

Thomas Haggerty, 90 days in jail; William Morgan, Bernard Rice, Peter Wilson, William Blakeley and George Bacon, 60 days in jail; "Mother" Mary Jones, sentence postponed; five Hungarians, unable to speak English, sentence postponed.

After the decision was rendered, District Attorney Blizzard filed an affidavit that W. B. Wilson, secretary of the United Mine Workers, had violated the restraining order by making an inflammatory speech at Clarksburg, July 7, and at Fairmont, July 8. His arrest was asked. Judge Jackson made an order that Wilson be arrested and brought within the jurisdiction of the court. Wilson is in Indianapolis.

The Purpose of Injunctions.

Judge Jackson's decision was a long one. In the course of it he said:

"The ordinary use of the writ of injunction is to prevent wrongs and injuries to persons and their property, or to reinstate the rights of persons to their property when they have been deprived of it. It is the most efficient, if not the only remedy, to stay irreparable injury and to punish those who disobey the order of a court granting the writ.

"It is a mistaken idea to suppose that the courts of this country abuse this writ. In my long experience on the bench I cannot recall a single occasion when any court, either federal or state, ever abused it in what are known as strike questions. It is true that our courts have been criticised severely by persons who are inimical to the use of it and have denounced the courts for granting it by injunction; but this criticism is so obviously unjust to the courts, that it is unnecessary to enter into a defense of them.

"I do not question the right of the employes of this company to quit work at any time they desire to do so, unless there is a contract relation between them and the employer, which should control their right to quit. At the same time, I do not recognize the right of an employer to coerce the employes to continue their work when they desire to quit.

The Question of Coercion.

"While I recognize the right of all laborers to combine for the purpose of protecting all their lawful rights, I do not recognize the right of laborers to conspire together to compel employes, who are not dissatisfied with their work in the mines, to lay down their picks and to quit their work without a just or proper reason therefor, merely to gratify a professional set of agitators, organizers and walking delegates, who roam all over the country as agents for some combination, who are vampires that live and fatten on the honest labor of the coal miners of the country, and who are busybodies, creating dissatisfaction among a class of people who are quiet, well-disposed, and who do not want to be disturbed by the unceasing agitation of this class of people.

"In the case we have under consideration these defendants are known as professional agitators, organizers and walking delegates. They have nothing in common with the people who are employed in the mines of the Clarksburg Fuel Company.

"The strong arm of the court of equity is invoked in this case, not to suppress the right of free speech, but to restrain and inhibit those defendants whose only purpose is to bring about strikes by trying to coerce people who are not dissatisfied with the terms of their employment, which results in inflicting injury and damage to their employers, as well as the employes."

The Offences of Mother Jones.

The court then referred to "Mother" Jones' speech near the Kinnikinnick mines, saying her utterances were the outgrowth of the sentiments of those who believed in communism and anarchy.

"The evidence showed that 'Mother' Jones had called the miners slaves; said she did not care anything for injunctions; that it was a duty to urge the men at work to lay down their tools, and advised the men to strike; that the judge was a hireling of the coal company, and the coal operators were all robbers. She said in her speech to pay no attention to Judge Jackson, or to the court; but just make the miners lay down their tools and come out."

"It is true," says the court, "that 'Mother' Jones denied some of the statements of the witnesses, but her denial was not positive, but equivocal."

Judge Jackson said that "Mother" Jones had been found guilty of contempt, but as she was posing as a martyr, he would not send her to jail or allow her to force her way into jail. He said he would hold conviction over her, and if she again violated the injunction he would sentence her heavily.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 24.—Secretary Wilson received a telegram this afternoon from Parkersburg informing him that a warrant had been issued for his arrest. He expects a deputy marshal will come here for the purpose of taking him before Judge Jackson at Parkersburg.

CARBOLIC DID NOT WORK.

Attempt of an Allegheny Woman to Commit Suicide Is a Failure and She Is Glad.

A stomach pump and antidotes, and probably the fact that she had not taken as much carbolic acid as her husband thought she had, saved Mrs. Kate Reitlinger from suicide yesterday. Petty domestic troubles are said to have caused the woman to become weary of life. She was walking about the house last evening with a scarred lip, but was otherwise not much the worse for her attempt.

The Reitlingers live at No. 32 Callen street, Allegheny, very close to the suicide belt. The husband returned home at 10 a. m., on Wednesday and found the door of the bedroom locked. He knocked and receiving no answer burst open the door, just as his wife drained some carbolic acid from a glass.

He threw out of the window a three-ounce vial that stood on the table, and was about half full of the poison. A physician was sent for and by giving the woman antidotes, and using a stomach pump, got her out of danger.

LEAPED FROM BOULEVARD TO THE RAILROAD TRACKS.

George Lear Took a Desperate Chance in Trying to Evade Arrest.

George Lear did a "Brodie" leap from the high wall of the Grant boulevard shortly before 10 o'clock last night and landed squarely in the center of one of the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Union station. The man leaped at least 40 feet and was picked up unhurt, save a few scratches and bruises.

Lear is well known in the lower part of the hill district. He has a bad reputation and is a frequent visitor at the police stations. Last night several women complained to Officer J. J. Weber that they had been insulted by a man on the boulevard. They gave a description of Lear and the policeman went to find him.

When he reached Lear he placed him under arrest. The fellow broke away and, reaching the wall, jumped over. The officer thought the man would be dead when he alighted and hurried around through the Union station, expecting to find his mangled remains on the track.

Lear, however, had been unhurt by the fall save for a few minor injuries and was trying to make his escape from the crowd of railroad employes when the officer arrived on the scene. He was taken to the corner of Penn avenue and Liberty street, loaded into the patrol wagon and brought to Central station. He will be given a hearing before Magistrate B. McKenna this morning.

POLICEMAN WAS THE QUICKER SHOT

SILAS WHITE OWES HIS LIFE TO A BUTTON ON HIS TROUSERS.

While Fleeing from Arrest He Drew Revolver, but Officer J. W. Reed Dropped Him With Shot—Was Only Flesh Wound.

A large steel button on his trousers saved Silas White, colored, his life yesterday afternoon. White was fleeing from Officer J. W. Reed to escape arrest about 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. He whipped out his gun while on the run, but before he could get a chance to discharge the weapon the policeman shot and the negro dropped to the sidewalk.

The bullet from the officer's revolver struck a button on the left side of the man's trousers, and glancing cut the flesh for half an inch immediately below his heart. The shooting occurred at the corner of Clark street and Sachem alley and created quite a good deal of excitement in the hill district.

On last Sunday night a woman boarder in the home of Claude Lougham, No. 13 Sachem alley, had $15 in money stolen from her trunk. White boarded at the place and was at once suspected of the theft. The officers at No. 2 police station were notified of the loss and immediately started to look for White.

He did not show up at his boarding house until yesterday afternoon. The police were notified of his presence at the house and Officer Reed was sent to catch him. He reached the Lougham house just as White was leaving. He called out for the man to stop, but he ran away as hard as he could.

The policeman started in hot pursuit, and just as White attempted to round the corner of Sachem alley and Clark street he pulled his revolver. Policeman Reed saw his movement and quickly pulling his own shooting iron from his pocket he shot at the negro and he dropped.

No. 2 patrol wagon was called and the injured man was taken to the station house, where his wound was dressed by Dr. A. A. E. McCandless. The physician found that the pants button had saved the man's life. The bullet had grazed the flesh and cut into it in one place. The wound is not dangerous, and the capture of White is looked upon by the police department as a rather important one, as he is known to be a desperate character.

After the wound was dressed at the police station White began to wail and cried out that he was going to die. He was really in no danger.

White had a 38 caliber revolver, filled with cartridges. Three other cartridges were also found in his pockets. Reed's revolver was a 32 caliber and has been used by him in the police service for many years.

It was not necessary last night to send White to a hospital, and he will be held and given a hearing this morning on a charge of being a suspicious person. But little money was found on his person, and it may be rather difficult to prove the charge of theft lodged against him.

PROTEST TO ROOSEVELT.

John Mitchell Will Make an Appeal on Judge Jackson's Sentences. Hard Coal Goes Higher.

CHICAGO, July 24.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America said today that Judge Jackson's decision would be laid before President Roosevelt at once, with protests, and that the president would be asked to intercede in behalf of American citizenship. The cases will be carried to the United States supreme court. President Mitchell said: "The decision imperils the rights of all Americans in the courts."

TAMAQUA, PA., July 24.—The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company today resumed operations at its No. 12 mine, one of the largest collieries in the region. Without any notice the work of operating the colliery was started by the hoisting of some few cars of coal that had been loaded inside previous to the strike. This was dumped into the breaker, and, with the means of the improved machinery and the non-union hands, including many of the bosses and engineer corps, the breaker was kept running. This is the nearest approach to the operation of a colliery that has yet been made anywhere since the big strike commenced.

NEW YORK, July 24.—There was an advance in the retail price of anthracite coal today to $8 a ton for all sizes. This is an increase of 50 cents a ton to the users of domestic sizes, and 75 cents a ton to the users of steam sizes.

TEACHERS PARTY SEEING SIGHTS IN FATHERLAND

Spent Several Hours at the Historic Cathedral in Cologne.

GOOD VIEW OF THE RHINE

Guests of The Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph Will Take a Steamer Ride Today Up the Classic River Through Germany.

By L. W. STRAYER,
Staff Correspondent.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cologne, Germany, July 24.—After nearly two days spent in seeing the sights of Amsterdam, the Dutch metropolis, the teacher guests of the Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph arrived here today with all well and having a good time. The teachers had enough time in Amsterdam to thoroughly absorb the peculiar sights offered by that old city of canals that is built on piles to keep it above the waters of the Zuyder Zee. The old church, where the kings and queens of Holland are crowned, the unimposing-looking royal palace, the markets, curiosity shops and the homes of the people themselves, whose wooden shoes are carefully discarded in the front hall to guard against the possible intrusion of dirt, were all seen.

Here in Cologne the main attraction is the cathedral, probably the most magnificent Gothic edifice in the world. The entire party spent several hours in and about the building, which has a strange history. It took 632 years to complete the structure. The foundation stone was laid in 1248, and the completion of the cathedral was celebrated in the presence of Emperor William I. October 15, 1880. From the top of the huge spires that rise 512 feet from the Dom-Platz below, our party obtained a magnificent view up the Rhine river. Cologne lies in a flat country, but to the south we could see the mountains that concealed the Drachenfels, the rock of the Lorelei, Bingen, with its famous mouse tower, Ehrenbreitstein and its fortress and the distant vineyards near Johannisberg and the mouth of the Moselle.

What we could not see of the Rhine from the cathedral spire we will see tomorrow, when the party takes the steamer ride up the river to Mayence. We will journey from there to Heidelberg by rail.

TEACHERS ARE DIPLOMATS

By Exercising Tact They Got the Best That Was To Be Had On the Minnehaha.

By L. W. STRAYER.
(Special Letter to the Gazette.)

STEAMSHIP MINNEHAHA, At Sea, July 11.—These schoolma'ams on The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph European tour are certainly entitled to teach diplomacy among other studies. At least they are masters of the art and have demonstrated their ability during the voyage. The Minnehaha is an English ship, although owned by American capital, and is officered by Englishmen who are conservative and not inclined to be too cordial toward a party of tourists beyond the line of formal politeness.

This was shown on the first day of the voyage when the ladies found themselves circumscribed by certain rules and regulations which the officers were inclined to rigidly enforce. As an instance, there were certain trunks in the hold which were wanted, as they contained gowns needed in the mock wedding ceremony. The steward was appealed to, but he was adamant.

"Really, ladies, it can't be done," he said.

"Are you quite sure?" asked one of the teachers, and a silver coin passed into the steward's palm.

"Well, possibly, it can be arranged," he said, and in 10 minutes the trunks were up on deck.

But diplomacy that required the use of money was not the kind for the teachers and they began a campaign for more extensive recognition. The captain was surrounded on the hurricane deck by a delegation of girls, all talking at once and trying to make him understand that his presence was desired at the mock marriage which was to take place that evening. The bluff old captain surrendered at the first volley, but begged off and said: "Now run away, girls, and be good."

But smiles and kind words, spiced with a little "jolly," worked wonders even with these conservative and serious Englishmen. A few days passed and the attitude toward The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph party underwent a very material change. I met the captain on deck and he broached the subject of a mock trial and a concert, both of which had been talked of by our party with an accompaniment of a collection, the proceeds to be divided between the Seamen's Home of New York and the Sailors' Orphanage of London.

"'Yes, captain,' I said, 'we would like your advice as to which would be the most appropriate.'"

"Give them both; give them both," he replied. "They will be very amusing and be well patronized. I understand you have some excellent talent in your party and we should be pleased to enjoy it."

Here was vindication and American diplomacy had won again. The chief steward became a model of polite attentiveness, contributed brass buttons for the euchre prizes, and offered the use of the dining salon and piano whenever they were wanted. The doctor inquired solicitously after those who had succumbed to seasickness. The purser was ready to oblige in any manner possible. The deck steward was tireless in placing chairs and rugs in the most advantageous positions. Other passengers were profuse in expressing their delight that the teachers had infused some life and jollity into the ship. In short, we owned the Minnehaha and I haven't the slightest doubt, if the schoolma'ams had suggested putting about and returning to New York, the captain would at least have given the suggestion polite consideration.

The success of this diplomatic work was a source of considerable surprise to some of the passengers. They had been used to dragging favors and privileges from the officers and crew. A number of the passengers were English people and the English motto is, "When you don't get what you want, ask for it and ask hard." The easy and successful means of employing Yankee tact was an object lesson to some of them which they are not likely to forget.

The following conditions should be observed in addressing mail to the members of the teachers' party:

Address your letters to "Member of The Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph tour, care Thomas Cook & Son, Ludgate circus, London, England."

Letters for foreign countries require postage at the rate of five cents for each one-half ounce or fraction thereof. Be sure and put sufficient postage on your letters, otherwise they may not reach the person addressed.

As the party sails, returning for home, from Glasgow, August 9, the last opportunity to reach them in the old country would be to mail letters in Pittsburgh not later than July 27. The superintendent of mails of this city states that the last steamer carrying mail, that would be sure to make connection with the party, sails from New York at 8 a. m. July 29. If it is desired to reach any member of the party after landing in New York, and before they return home, letters may be addressed in care of The Pittsburgh Gazette News Bureau, Herald building, New York. Arrangements will be made for mail to be promptly delivered from the news bureau on arrival of the Columbia on August 9.

CRANK IN THE WALDORF.

He Demands $110,000 Which He Said His Sister Had Left Upon a Window Sill for Him.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Special.)—Loudly declaring that he was heir to a fortune left him by a sister, a well-dressed man created an uproar this morning at the Waldorf-Astoria. The stranger, who gave his name as Archie Gordon, loitered about in the corridor for half an hour, then approached the information clerk and demanded $110,000, which he said his sister had left in the hotel for him.

"It is lying on a window sill, and I need it to pay my rent," he exclaimed. "Be quick about getting the money, for I am afraid it will be blown away."

He followed this with a demand for the keys to a suite of rooms.

When the hotel policeman took him in hand the man attacked nearly all the patrons in that part of the hotel. Gordon was committed to Bellevue asylum to be examined as to his sanity.

Save the Dollar You Spend Thoughtlessly.

It isn't a large amount—you'll scarcely miss it—but a dollar deposited regularly every week with the Pennsylvania Trust Company, at 4 per cent interest, soon grows to be a handsome sum. Try it. 410 Smithfield street is the location.

Today's Big Sale.

We have given pretty wide publicity to the big sale that is to be this Friday's feature in this big store.

That the various items, with their prices wonderfully down from what they were originally, will meet with ready response is a foregone conclusion.

We were perfectly frank in stating the number of yards, or the number of pieces of this or that which would be on sale, and we must ask you in all fairness, if a little late and the goods are found to be all gone, not to blame the sales-person.

Their business is to sell to people asking first for goods.

And it is on these lines that we urge you to be as early this morning as your engagements will permit you to get to the store.

LOVE THAT WAS SCORNED CAUSED SIEBERT'S DEED

He Shot and Fatally Wounded Wife of Man With Whom He Boarded.

CAPTURED ON HILL TOP

After Committing the Crime He Fled Up Nunnery Hill and Yielded Without Resistance to Policemen Who Followed Him.

Robert Siebert, a German, yesterday shot and mortally wounded Mrs. Dora Stephan, the wife of Philip Stephan, a well-to-do German of Allegheny. Siebert fled, but was arrested shortly afterward by two policemen. From letters found on Siebert it is evident that he was enamored of Mrs. Stephan, in whose house he boarded. The letters sought to convey the idea that he had been intimate with her, but the neighbors say that it was a case of unrequited love and that Siebert committed the deed because he could not induce Mrs. Stephan to elope with him.

Siebert is 40 years old; Mrs. Stephan 44. The Stephan family live at No. 11 Loretta street. Siebert is a baker and a supposed anarchist and member of the Allegheny group; Stephan is a foreman at Thomas Carlin & Sons' foundry in River avenue, Allegheny. He earns a good salary and owns four houses in Allegheny.

Three Shots Fired.

Siebert had boarded with the Stephans since 1897. He came to America in 1892. He had been drinking the last four weeks. Yesterday about 12:30 Dora Waechter, 12 years old, a niece of Mrs. Stephan, who spent much of her time with her aunt, returned to the Stephan house after having performed an errand. She was in the basement kitchen, when she saw Siebert staggering across the street and into the house. The man asked her if she wanted 5 cents, and upon pulling some money out of his pocket he dropped a cartridge on the floor. The little girl asked him where he got the "bullet," and Siebert, telling her it was none of her business, went up stairs to the first floor into his room, which Mrs. Stephan was sweeping. Dora heard three shots, heard her aunt cry "Ach, ach!" and saw Siebert run down the stairs. At the same moment Mrs. Susan Dirick, who lives on the second floor of the Stephan house, looked down the stairs and saw Siebert run out of the house. Mrs. Waechter, a sister of Mrs. Stephan's husband, saw Siebert rush out of the house just as she entered, having heard the shots.

Husband's Grief.

"Oh, Robert," she said, "what have you done?"

"She oughtn't to blame me," replied Siebert in German. "I wanted to kill myself." Then he ran up street and disappeared.

It was nearly half an hour before the neighbors thought of sending for a doctor. Mrs. Stephan had come down the stairs from her room to the basement, and with the words, "Robert shot me," sank into a chair. Dr. H. R. Hartmeyer and Dr. John L. Wessels were called in and had a mattress placed upon the floor, and the woman laid on it. They probed for the bullet and located it. It had entered the left lung and penetrated within two inches of the other side, piercing both lungs.

By that time Mrs. Stephan was unable to articulate, although conscious. Her husband was sent for. He was frantic with grief and gave vent, in German, to his grief and desire for revenge upon Siebert. He had to be led out of the room.

Murderer Captured.

In the meantime Siebert had run up East street and climbed to the steps leading to the top of Nunnery hill. He had been seen going into Kopp & Ahlers' board yard near the house, but when Superintendent of Police Henry Muth arrived he was informed by a woman that the man had gone up the hill. Muth had ordered several detectives out on the case and before learning of the direction of Siebert had taken he ordered Policemen Peter Kim and Adam Reitzel to go up the steps.

The two officers obeyed and near the two water tanks, in a clump of bushes, they found Siebert. He offered no resistance and accompanied the officers to East street, whence he was sent in a patrol wagon to Central station. An empty revolver, some money, several letters and four loaded cartridges were found in his pockets.

Superintendent of Police Henry Muth read the letters. They were incoherent, written in German, addressed to Gottlieb Wanzelburger of Hamlin street, Allegheny. In the letters Siebert said he and Mrs. Stephan had been intimate. He said when Gottlieb read the letter he would not be living.

He asked Wanzelburger to draw his money, $250, from the German National bank; pay for his funeral and send $100 to his sister, Margaret Siebert, at Rastenburg, Prussia. "I want to be buried decently," one of the letters read. "Bury me with music. Lay me in Schaffer's burying ground, and have Pastor Schaffer preach my funeral sermon. Have music at the funeral." The instructions to have music were repeated several times. All the letters were in German. Schaffer's cemetery is in Allegheny. The Rev. W. Schaffer is pastor of the German Lutheran church.

Superintendent Muth had a talk with Siebert in his cell. When Muth asked why he had shot Mrs. Stephen, Sebert said he did not know, but when Muth asked him if he did not remember having shot her, he said he did not remember. "I did not shoot anybody," he added. Siebert said he had attended the "gymnasium," the German classical school; that he had come within two years of qualifying for the university, but had left the school to go into business. His father was well-to-do, he added, and owned 14 houses in Prussia. He asserted that he had spent some of his money on Mrs. Stephan.

Love Was Unrequited.

Siebert would not explain why he had not carried out his evident intention to commit suicide. He fired three shots, and after fleeing, he had drawn the other two cartridges out of the revolver and placed them in his pocket with two that he already had there. The marks of two of the bullets were in a window sill.

The neighbors of the Stephan family speak highly of Mrs. Stephan. Carrie Stephan, the woman's adopted daughter, 18 years old, said that in the last four weeks Siebert had tried to make love to her mother, but that she paid no attention to him, and knowing that he was drinking, did not tell her husband about it.

Siebert is a rather good-looking fellow, and was evidently well educated in German. He has a good-humored face and looks nothing like a murderer.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Stephan was able to talk again, and when Assistant Superintendent of Police John Glenn and Detective Frank Aikens visited the house she told them through an interpreter that Siebert had shot her.

Superintendent of Police Henry Muth at 5 o'clock made information against Siebert before Police Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen, charging him with felonious shooting and Siebert was sent to jail to await the result of Mrs. Stephan's wound.

Siebert was in very bad shape and on the verge of delirium tremens at midnight. He seems partially demented.

The police think the shot that hit Mrs. Stephan may have been accidental, as they believe Siebert was only trying to frighten her. The neighbors laugh at the theory and great indignation exists against the slayer of the woman.

BEWILDERED GIRL ATTACKED BY A MOB

Miss Annie Baldauf Shamefully Mistreated by Crowd on the South Side.

Miss Annie Baldauf, a young woman who recently came to Pittsburgh from Kentucky, last night had an experience with the residents of the South Side which she will remember for the remainder of her life. For cruelty and barbarity the actions of several hundred people on Carson street last night have never before equaled in the city.

Miss Baldauf, shortly after arriving in Pittsburgh, secured a position as a domestic in an East End family. Recently she became ill and a physician, who was called yesterday, pronounced her ailment smallpox. The young woman was last night turned out into the street. She made her way to the South Side, to find the home of an uncle, who lives in Stella street.

While going up Carson street she was attacked by a number of persons and her clothing torn. Miss Baldauf, through wandering about from place to place, in search of her uncle's home, was almost exhausted, when pounced upon by the crowd, and she was only prevented serious injury by intervention of the police.

Miss Baldauf made her way up Carson street, as far as the livery stable of F. A. Erny, at No. 1822 Carson street, where she tried to engage a carriage to take her to her uncle's home in Stella street. A member of the livery firm noticed the eruption on the girl's face, through a black veil she wore, and also that she had her hands concealed beneath a cape. She was refused the carriage.

In the meantime a crowd gathered and by the time she was on her way to the South Side hospital in South Twentieth street, fully 25 people were following her. At the hospital she was told she was suffering from measles and there turned away, too.

The almost distracted girl then learned the direction of Stella street, and, still dogged by the crowd, which continued to become larger, she went on up Carson street and finally reached the home of her uncle, but here, too, she was disappointed, as he refused to give her shelter.

Without knowing where she was going, she retraced her steps down the hill to Carson street and on down the South Side. In her wake fully 200 people were then following. Men, women and children hooted and called after the girl. Her greatest trial came when a man stepped forward and tore the veil from the girl's face.

Others then ripped parts of her clothing from her body, and the girl would shortly have been denuded of her clothing had not Murray Lewis, sergeant at No. 7 police station, who lives in the neighborhood, been told of the actions of the men and hurried to her rescue.

Sergt. Lewis took Miss Baldauf to the office of Dr. Daniel Atkins, at No. 2417 Carson street, where, after making an examination, he pronounced the girl's illness chickenpox. Miss Baldauf told the physician and Sergt. Lewis her story, but refused to say who the people are in the East End who turned her out into the street last night, when it was thought she was suffering from smallpox. Late last night Miss Baldauf was sent to the home of an aunt who lives in Castle Shannon.

ROBBERY AND CRIME RAMPANT IN CITY

Reports of Burglary Number Many Every Day, With Few of Them Given Out.

Another outbreak of robbery, murder and crime of every sort is becoming apparent in and around the city. Few of the robberies reported are ever made public by the police, but there have been several every day for weeks.

A very bold robbery occurred in the Oakland district early Wednesday morning at the boarding house No. 351 Meyran avenue kept by W. O. Wilson, a motorman. The thief was daring enough to enter at least two rooms and rob the clothes of three sleeping men of $58 in all.

In the morning at 4:30, when Wilson arose to go to work, he could not find his trousers, and he awakened E. Anderson. An examination disclosed the fact that both pairs of trousers were missing. The trousers were found in the passageway between the two houses, minus the money.

A search of the house found the others all in bed, and R. G. Gilliland, a conductor, who occupied a room at the head of the stairs, missed his pocketbook with $10. The book was found in the grass in front of the house, but the money was gone. The thief obtained $20 from Wilson and $28 from Anderson.

Wilson said last night that he had informed one of the officers from No. 4 police station of the robbery on Wednesday, but that no one had called to investigate the matter. At the police station it was said that the matter had been reported and that nothing was known of the robbery.

Burglars have taken from the house of Roger F. Evans, Melbourne and Delly streets, all they wanted. Just when it was done is not known, but it was discovered by the family yesterday. Mr. Evans recently bought a Homestead saloon and the family have been there getting the place in readiness, leaving the Pittsburgh home vacant. The burglary was probably committed by someone knowing of the movements of the family. Goods to the value of $200 were taken.

A sneak thief slipped into the house of Mrs. J. M. Berlin, No. 747 Denniston avenue, Swissvale, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and took a pocketbook containing $57.

Mrs. Carrie A. Barker, a boarding house keeper of No. 17 East Montgomery avenue, Allegheny, yesterday reported to the Allegheny police that she had been robbed of $5 by two men who gained admission to her house on the pretense of engaging a room.

The grocery store of W. H. Cox, No. 208 Centre street, Edgewood, was entered by burglars early yesterday morning and $18 was taken from the money drawer.

William Jackson, a negro, was locked up in No. 2 police station yesterday on a charge of larceny. It is alleged by Mrs. Belle Harris of No. 9 Avon alley that he went to her room and took $21 from her trunk.

Joseph Lanahan and W. W. Stewart were locked up in No. 2 police station yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing $10 from Thomas M. Meany in a Washington street saloon. The three men give Baltimore as their home.

Two New Carriers Coming.

Two additional carriers will be placed at Station D, which is at Wilkinsburg, on October 1. The application for larger quarters has been refused. The office does a business of $100,000 a year.

National Guardsmen Complimented on Efficiency; Large Coal Land Purchase in Indiana County

GUARDSMEN COMPLIMENTED

Commander-in-Chief Congratulates Troops on Encampment.

DISCIPLINE IS SATISFACTORY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, July 24.—The following general order was issued from National Guard headquarters today:

The commander-in-chief congratulates the officers and men of the National Guard of Pennsylvania upon the unprecedented success that attended the encampment of the division held at Gettysburg, Pa., July 12 to 19, 1902. Never before in the history of the National Guard has such a high degree of efficiency been attained, and the discipline and conduct of the troops been so eminently satisfactory. The hope of the commander-in-chief, as well as the officers of the guard, that the privilege of camping upon the historic field of Gettysburg would be appreciated by all who participated in this encampment, has been fully realized.

The behavior of the troops, the efficient condition of the several commands, the willingness to perform all duties faithfully and promptly, and the knowledge of the requirements of the service, were the subject of commendation and praise from the honorable secretary of war and the distinguished officers of the United States army who accompanied him on his visit to the encampment.

Every member of the National Guard may well feel a personal pride in the organization and deem it an honor to enjoy membership therein, realizing, however, that its reputation, efficiency and morale is in the keeping of the individual member, and upon each devolves the duty of maintaining its present efficiency and admittedly high personnel.

The citizenship of the state recognize that the National Guard is the conservator of the public peace and of law and order. If it is efficient it will inspire confidence in the people and hold in check the passions of the thoughtless and irresponsible who in time of excitement may menace life and property. If its personnel is kept at the present high standard, or advanced, the service will attract the best of young men of our state and give them a training in and knowledge of military affairs that will add materially to their worth as citizens and to their individual advantage.

The commander-in-chief, speaking for the people of the commonwealth, therefore congratulates the National Guard of Pennsylvania upon the present proud position to which it has attained and indulges the hope that the untiring effort, the devotion to duty, the insistence upon a high personnel and the willingness to indulge in personal sacrifices for the good of the commonwealth and the advancement of the National Guard may still continue.

MIMIC WARFARE TO BE HELD AT SCHENLEY

Eighteenth Regiment Will Have Firing Drills On August 2.

The pay warrants for the recent camp duty at Gettysburg were distributed to regimental and company officers of the Eighteenth regiment, N. G. P., at a meeting of the officers held last evening at regimental headquarters, Fifth avenue, Oakland. The Eighteenth is the first of the Second brigade to receive their pay for this encampment, and the honor is owing to the excellent condition in which their pay rolls were presented.

As the warrants were handed out by Col. F. L. Rutledge he took occasion to congratulate the officers upon the splendid record made by both officers and men at the annual encampment, and Lieut. Col. J. C. Kay, in return, made a few very complimentary remarks in regard to Col. Rutledge. In addition to distributing the camp pay the financial affairs for the camp were audited and settled.

Before the meeting adjourned Col. Rutledge promulgated an order for a regimental drill at Schenley park at 5:30 o'clock on Saturday, August 2. It will be an extended order drill and is intended to give the people of Pittsburgh an exhibition of the modern mode of firing and several thousand blank cartridges will be used in the sham battle.

The extended order movements will be followed by a short drill and dress parade and will be a fine opportunity to see the regiment at its best. The regiment will appear in fighting uniform of khaki pants, canvas leggings, blue shirt and camp hat.

The presentation on the camp's last day of a very handsome sword to Capt. W. K. Reifsnyder of Company E by the men of his command was a well deserved compliment, as he has one of the best companies in the regiment," said Col. Rutledge.

Lieut. T. J. Benecker, inspector of rifle practice, said that a number of the men were practicing with the new Krag-Jorgenson rifle for the annual state shoot at Mount Gretna on August 18.

THEY WENT IN PATROL WAGON.

Women Spent Money Given Them for Car Fare in Buying Beer.

Elizabeth McMinnamin, an old woman, was picked up by the police at Virgin alley and Wood street yesterday afternoon. She had fallen in the street. Some time ago she lost a leg in a trolley car accident and compromised, it is said, with the company for $650. Accompanied by four other women she came from the South Side to ask the traction company for more money.

After she was brought to the police station her friends appeared and said they had no money to pay their carfare home. They refused to ride home in the patrol wagon and Supt. McAleese gave them carfare, refusing to give them any for beer. They went away, leaving the one-legged woman on the steps. Presently they returned, said they had spent the money for beer, and asked for more carfare. The disgusted superintendent gave them the choice of being locked up or going home in the patrol wagon, and they choose the wagon.

Fatally Shot in Street.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., July 24.—(Special.)—Ogden Eagle shot and fatally wounded Frank Hendricks this evening in front of a saloon in the East End. Eagle had been drinking and was troublesome. He stumbled and accused Hendricks of tripping him. Eagle was arrested.

COKE PRODUCTION SHORT OF DEMAND

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 24.—The Courier will say tomorrow:

Coke production is hovering close to the 250,000-ton a week mark in the Connellsville region. One hundred thousand tons a week more could be used to advantage if the operators could produce it and get cars in which to ship it. In the Pittsburgh district and in the Shenango valley some of the furnaces are reported to be only turning out about half of their capacity because of a short supply of coke. The Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroads have been well fixed for cars the past two weeks. The Baltimore & Ohio is not so well off in that respect. So far this year the coke companies have had all the water they could wish for.

The detailed report of the operation and output of the region for the week ending on Saturday, July 19, shows a total of 21,425 ovens, of which 20,611 were active and 814 were idle. The estimated tonnage was 249,550 tons, a slight increase compared with the production of the previous week. In the active ovens there was a loss. The Cambria Steel Company report the blowing out of 32 ovens at Wheeler. The coal is about exhausted there.

The shipments from the Connellsville region last week aggregated 12,062 cars, distributed as follows: To Pittsburgh and river tipples, 3,919 cars; to points west of Pittsburgh, 5,699 cars; to points east of Connellsville, 2,444 cars. Compared with the shipments of the previous week this was a decrease of 80 cars.

In the Lower Connellsville region there was also a slight gain in production last week. The total number of ovens is now 3,269, compared with 3,259 the previous week. A. L. Keister & Co. have added 10 new ovens. The active ovens in the Lower Connellsville district last week were 2,969, while 270 were idle. A six-days' run was made except at one or two of the smaller plants in that territory. The shipments were 972 cars.

Furnace coke is quoted at $2 25 and $2 50. Foundry coke at $2 70 and $3 00.

PENNYPACKER RESIGNS.

Gov. Stone Has Not Indicated Whom He Will Appoint to Fill Judgeship Vacancy.

HARRISBURG, July 24.—(Special.)—Gov. Stone will probably wait until after he returns from his summer vacation in the Adirondack mountains before appointing a successor to Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker, Republican candidate for governor, whose resignation as common pleas judge in Philadelphia, to take effect August 1, was received today at the executive department.

The governor expected to start on his vacation today, but his public duties interfered, and if he should decide to leave tomorrow he will return to Harrisburg in time to preside at the meeting of the capitol commission on August 5 to arrange for advertising for bids for the erection of the new capitol.

Stone declines to indicate whom he will appoint to succeed Judge Pennypacker, although it is conceded that whoever is chosen will be entirely satisfactory to Senators Quay and Penrose and Insurance Commissioner Durham.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—(Special.)—It is reliably stated that Governor Stone will not appoint a successor to Judge Pennypacker until after the Republican judicial convention makes a nomination. The governor, it is said, will name the choice of the convention.

The Public Ledger will editorially say tomorrow:

By the retirement of Judge Pennypacker the city loses one of its most useful, experienced and accomplished incumbents. During his long occupancy of the local bench he has served the public with absolute acceptability. He has invariably held the scales of justice with a steady hand and he has exhibited at all times the personal, intellectual and moral qualities that adorn the judicial office. His opinions reveal a thorough knowledge of the law and his contributions to the literature of the profession have been voluminous and permanently valuable. Judge Pennypacker's career has been all that an exacting bar and public could desire.

STORY IS RIDICULOUS.

Reported Controversy Between Miss Stone and Miss Quay Over Battleship Christening Is Denied.

HARRISBURG, July 24.—The following statement has been issued from the executive department by E. C. Getwig, private secretary to Gov. Stone:

The newspaper talk about a controversy between the governor's daughter and Miss Quay over the christening of the battleship Pennsylvania is ridiculous. The ship will not be launched until long after the governor's term expires. It is entirely proper for the builder to select any one he pleases to perform this ceremony, and as Senator Quay has been largely instrumental in securing appropriations for the battleship it is very proper that his daughter be selected.

So far as Miss Stone is concerned, she never thought of the selection and together with the governor and his family will be very glad if the honor should come to Miss Quay, who is in every way worthy of it.

CONCERTED RESUMPTION.

Southern West Virginia Mines Will Start Work Next Monday.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., July 24.—(Special.)—In all the Kanawha and New River field coal operators have posted notices that all the mines will resume operations on July 28 and that employes not reporting for duty may consider themselves discharged; also that eviction proceedings will be taken against all the striking miners occupying the company houses.

The mines that are attempting to run have increased forces daily and the forces of the marching miners, endeavoring to keep the men out, are daily growing smaller. There has been no disorder, nor is any expected.

BIG COAL DEAL NEAR INDIANA

About 23,000 Acres of Land Sold to One Company for $900,000.

FARMERS WERE ORGANIZED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANA, PA., July 24.—One of the greatest coal deals ever made in this section was consummated today when the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Company, through its trustee, William D. Bigler, bought some 23,000 acres in Cherryhill, White, Green and Rayne townships, this county, at a cost of over $900,000.

This block of coal was the last of any great size remaining in the hands of its original owners, the farmers of the county. It consisted of 21 farms, and the owners had combined and agreed not to sell, until the tract went as a whole, and at a fair price. It begins about two miles northeast of this place, and includes an unbroken strip about two miles wide and six miles long.

The land has nearly all been tested, and the combination of owners was formed by S. M. McHenry of White township, who engaged several agents to option the land. The price secured ranges all the way from $30 to $50 per acre, the average being about $40, which is considered a fair price in the thin vein field of this county.

Announcements of several other deals for tracts of 4,000 or 5,000 acres are expected soon. Stadden & McHugh and the Glenwood Coal Company, together with the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal & Iron Company, which already holds some 80,000 acres in the county, are still looking for options on acreage.

ASKS COUNCILMEN TO INSPECT RESERVOIR

Director J. Guy McCandless Wants Them to See It Before Water Is Pumped In.

Members of Pittsburgh councils will thoroughly inspect Highland reservoir No. 2 before any water is placed in it. By September 1 the bottom of the reservoir will be covered with water. Prior to that date Director J. Guy McCandless will take the members of councils and the city engineers there and will go thoroughly over the work. If the engineers and members of councils are satisfied, the water will be pumped into the basin. The reservoir will get several feet of water before the surrounding walls are completed.

"It is astonishing," said Director McCandless yesterday, "how the work is progressing on the Highland reservoir No. 2 contract. I believe that by September it will be possible to run a few feet of water in the reservoir. It will be a protection to the bottom. Of course, we would not want to cover the bottom before it is inspected.

"I think that it would be the proper thing for members of councils to inspect the reservoir. They are the people who ought to be thoroughly satisfied before anything is done, and I shall invite them to go out and go thoroughly over the contract. We will take with us the city engineers, and they can inspect the work while we are there. The engineer in charge of the contract, John G. Trimble, will be there also, and we will, of course, get his certificate that the work has been done according to the specifications before we cover it up. But the water ought to be pumped in as soon as possible, because it will be a protection to the bottom of the reservoir.

"I have heard it stated that we cannot use the reservoir until we get the new engines. That is a mistake. We can use one of the engines for a short time now and then and soon get the reservoir full. When it is once full it will be ready for use."

LARGER TENT NECESSARY.

Outdoor Religious Campaign Exciting Interest—Demand More Accommodation.

The nightly religious meetings that are being held in tents in various parts of the two cities, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Evangelistic committee of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, have reached such proportions that large tents are needed.

The committee began work two weeks ago, on a limited scale, and now has from 400 to 500 people attending the tent meetings in every district. Sunday evenings the crowds are proportionately larger.

During August the huge tent used by the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young in Schenley park will be spread in various parts of the city, beginning a week from Sunday in Friendship park. Dr. Young's tent will accommodate nearly 1,000 people and it is expected that there will be more than that number attend the opening services in Friendship park the first Sunday in August. The tent will remain there one week, then be transferred to another district. The tent at Dinwiddie street and Center avenue seats about 300.

During August the Rev. Dr. A. H. Jolly will be general manager of the services in both cities. The list of speakers is to be announced later. The tent services consist of a preliminary song service of about 15 minutes, followed by short sermons by various ministers. No less than six ministers attend each of these services.

The committee of the two presbyteries which is conducting this outdoor work is composed of the Rev. Drs. J. P. Calhoun, C. S. McClelland, F. W. Sneed, S. Edward Young, G. W. Chalfant, W. A. Jones, D. S. Kennedy, H. D. Lindsay, W. S. Miller, D. R. Breed, W. S. Fulton, Thomas Parry, S. A. Hunter and Elders S. P. Harbison, Robert Pitcairn, W. A. Shaw, J. I. Buchanan, W. W. Blackburn, Dr. J. C. Dunn and W. C. Lilley.

At Wilkinsburg the nightly services that are being conducted by the Rev. John M. Moore, pastor of the Baptist church, in the tent which has been christened "Glad Tidings," are increasing in interest and are attracting large audiences.

MORE OPPONENTS OF RECIPROCITY NOW IN DANGER

One by One Insurgent Congressmen Are Dropping Back to Privacy.

FERMENT IN MINNESOTA

Representatives There Having Experience Similar to That of Their Comrades in Michigan—Picturesque Figures May Be Missed.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.

One by one the leaves are dropping in the fierce gale of public opinion which is whistling about the ears of the opponents of the president's Cuban reciprocity policy. The two Nebraska senators were marooned by their state convention; Senator Burton of Kansas is in hot water; four Michigan representatives have been left at the post, and now comes word from Minnesota that Uncle Loren Fletcher of the Minneapolis district may have to take to the tall timber.

Uncle Loren has represented the Minneapolis district for 10 years and was thought to be a fixture. He was one of the prominent opponents of Cuban reciprocity. The newspapers of his district came out strong for reciprocity. Then two young hustlers came out for the nomination.

James A. Petersen, a Norwegian, is ready to come to Washington if they make Uncle Loren "yump the yob," as they say in Minnesota. He is close to the leaders and is a skillful politician. Eugene A. Hay, former United States district attorney, is contesting the prize with him. Hay is an ex-Indiana politician and knows a trick or two. But Mr. Fletcher is a very rich man, and is said to be making the fight of his life.

Some changes in the Minnesota delegation are certain, whether Mr. Fletcher wins or not. The picturesque Mr. Eddy, now representing the Seventh district, and who acknowledges the soft impeachment of being the homeliest man in congress, is going to quit, whether he has had enough, or, as his opponents say, it is a case of sour grapes; anyhow, he is out of it. His leading opponent is M. J. Dowling, nicknamed "the Frozen Son of Minnesota," from the fact that both hands and both feet were frozen off in a blizzard. He has been speaker of the lower house of the legislature and is very popular. He is opposed by E. T. Young and A. J. Volstead.

Another familiar figure will be missed from the Minnesota delegation, Judge Page Morris of the Duluth district, who retires voluntarily to devote himself to his law practice and with an eye, it is said, upon the United States district judgeship in the future.

The Republican candidate for his place is J. Adam Bede, familiarly called "Jadam" Bede. He will be remembered as the young man who applied in President Cleveland's last term for the United States marshalship, writing his application upon a piece of birchbark, thereby attracting the attention of the president and getting the appointment. He was a good Democrat then; but Mr. Bede was a politician and could not keep from mixing up in the campaign, to the dismay of the department of justice. Receiving a reprimand from the department, he in effect told his superior to please take a running jump and go plumb to thunder, and threw up the job. In 1896 he turned Republican and probably will come to congress, it is said.

CHARLES W. METZGAR.

CASTRO BRACES HIMSELF.

Proclamation Issued on Taking the Field Heroic in Tone, but Not Justified by Events.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—The text of a ringing proclamation, issued on July 5, the Independence day of Venezuela, by President Castro, has just been received in Washington. The proclamation was published on the eve of the president's departure from the "Yellow House" at Caracas to lead his army in the field. He says:

"Anarchy has struck deep its claws into the bowels of our country, but I will strangle that anarchy in the colis of my energy."

He declares his purpose to revolutionize the methods of government in Venezuela in these words: "From this moment I consecrate to the realization of that design all the energies of my soul, the resources of the government, the humble prestige of my sword, my unconquerable faith in the success of well-doing, and this life which has been spared by a torrent of bullets in a hundred duels with death.

"Bracing myself with the conflicts of peace, and raising my stature, if need be, beyond the limitations of nature, I shall chain events and harness them to the car of victory in the very camp of the rebellion. I declare myself in campaign. I am going to transfuse into the operations of the war the enthusiasm of my faith, my nervous activity and the efficacy of my personal direction."

FAYETTE BANNER COUNTY

Westmoreland Comes Next in Coal Production, Then Allegheny. Price Highest Since 1886.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—(Special.)—The annual report of the geological survey on coal, which was made public today, shows that the total production of the United States last year was 261,521,433 long tons, valued at $348,763,039, being an increase of nearly 21,000,000 tons over the previous year. Of the total production Pennsylvania's share was 73,446,863 tons of bituminous and 60,242,580 tons of anthracite.

The production of bituminous coal in Pennsylvania increased only 3 per cent over the previous year, notwithstanding the fact that the soft product has almost supplanted the hard product in manufacturing enterprises. The price for bituminous was, however, the highest since 1886.

Fayette and Westmoreland continue at the head of the coal-producing counties of Pennsylvania, contributing over 38 per cent of the total product of the state. Fayette leads with about 1,000,000 tons more than Westmoreland, while Allegheny comes third with 10,297,000 short tons; Cambria ranks fourth, with 9,031,246 short tons; Washington fifth, with 5,910,621 short tons; Clearfield sixth, 5,886,407 short tons; Jefferson, 5,806,568 short tons, and Somerset, 4,831,660 short tons. All but Jefferson and Clearfield increased their output over the previous year. Of the product of Fayette and Westmoreland counties over one-half, or 17,244,640 tons, went into coke.

Owing to the strike in the anthracite regions the report says the demand for bituminous coal, coke and gas has increased and some are inclined to adopt oil-burning devices as a substitute.

The total production of Ohio was 20,788,407 tons, valued at $20,782,358; of West Virginia, 24,056,308 tons, valued at $20,838,180. Attention is called to the fact that nearly the entire output of the West Virginia mines goes to other states.

CLAIM JUMPED BY JAPAN.

American Who Took an Island Years Ago Loses It by Abandonment.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—The Japanese government has served formal notice on the state department that it claims possession of Marcos island, toward which is now heading an American expedition under Capt. Rosehill with a purpose of exploiting its guano deposits. The state department has taken measures to advise Capt. Rosehill that he must offer no resistance if he should fall in with a Japanese warship, which also is speeding for the islands.

Rosehill landed on the island about 13 years ago. He put up a sign and deposited a bottle setting forth his claims to the island, erected a flagpole and hoisted the United States flag. Then he sailed away from the island, leaving it unoccupied, a fact which may vitiate his title.

Made a Good Investment.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Special.)—The personal property left by the late Archbishop Patrick A. Feehan of Chicago consisted largely of life insurance, most of which he carried in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He held two policies in that company, amounting to $25,000 each, and on one of these policies dividends amounting to $9,829 had accumulated.

FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1902.

TWELVE PAGES.

Ready for the Battle.

Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker filed his resignation from the bench yesterday as a preliminary to the active work of the campaign. The man's character is indicated in this act. In his estimation the judicial ermine is a sacred thing, not to be tarnished by taking it even into clean politics. The act also announces the man with the courage of his convictions. He is going into the fight to win and regards it already won. His bridges are burned behind him, so there can be no retreat. The Republican candidate for governor is just the sort of man who inspires public confidence and who, when elected, can be depended upon to administer the affairs of the state capably and fearlessly.

One or Two Conclusions.

Testimony adduced during the second day of the inquest into the mine disaster at Johnstown was to the purport that every reasonable precaution was taken by the mine management. The first day's testimony leaned partly to the contrary opinion. The coroner and his jury will have to decide the relative competence or credibility of the witnesses and testimony yet to be taken may aid them in that task. But a few conclusions may be drawn from what has already been heard.

First of all it is apparent that even the safeguards were imperfectly understood by a portion of the miners. Second, it appears that some who understood the dangers that may at any moment confront or overwhelm the coal miner were indifferent to the means of securing the safety of themselves and others. For the evil of absolute ignorance the anthracite law, which prohibits any man becoming a miner until he has served as a helper, may suffice. But that law cannot quicken the sense of caution in the miner of experience who has grown callous to danger. There ought to be an examination prescribed for men who desire to enter the mines, and it should cover not merely essential technical knowledge, but the attitude of the workman toward mine dangers and legal restrictions. Something of that sort is in vogue in England, where mine accidents have become notably less frequent than formerly.

Good for the Farmer.

If the farming interests of the country have been forgotten in the general hurly-burly and excitement over the marvelous growth of our industrial and commercial wealth the recent statistics issued by the census bureau for 1900 will prove a pleasing reminder of these vast interests that lie so nearly at the base of all material progress. These reports indicate that the agricultural wealth and prosperity of the country has steadily advanced along with the growth in all the other departments of American industry. At the date mentioned there were 5,700,000 separate farms in the country, and their total value, including improvements, live stock and implements, amounted to over twenty billions of dollars. The aggregate value of farm products for the last census year was practically $4,800,000,000. Now, when it is realized that the total capitalization of the railroads of the United States for 1901 amounted to less than $12,000,000,000, or not much more than one-half the value of farming property, while the gross earnings of these roads amounted to less than one-third the value of farm products, it will be seen that the farmers of the United States have no reason to complain over the part they play in the great growth and importance of this nation as a world power. It is further shown that the farm values exceed more than three times the output of all the mines in the United States in 1899.

The statistics of the census bureau intimate rather than broadly assert another important fact in connection with the farming interests of the country. This is the increasing facilities by which the farmer is yearly being elevated to a higher plane of profitable endeavor. The old and chronic kickers in this noble calling, the men who clung to antiquated methods and blamed their failures upon the law-making bodies, are being gradually replaced by men active, alert, enterprising and progressive, who, realizing the important part they play in the advancing wealth and prosperity of the country, are quick to seize every opportunity to make farming a still greater factor in the world power that the nation is destined to wield in the future.

Lynching Near at Hand.

Inhuman and brutal passion works its will in men when once aroused without much reference to either geographical boundaries or the pressure of superior civilization. The lynching of two negroes in West Virginia early yesterday morning was attended by the same acts of atrocious brutality that usually mark such crimes in what is known as the "lynching belt" in the extreme southern states. A mob of ungovernable men spurred by the consciousness of a wholly unprovoked murder have little sense of law or order left as a guide to their actions. In the West Virginia case the murdered man was a popular law officer and it may be taken for granted that the legal protectors of the criminals were not consumed with zeal in their efforts to save the prisoners.

Two facts have received fresh emphasis by the deplorable occurrence. One is that the officers to whom are committed the person of a prisoner for safe keeping are rarely excusable should that prisoner be taken from their hands. The second fact is that lynching is not an exclusively sectional crime, either in the bare act itself or in the fiendish ingenuity with which the mob violence is administered. To these may be added the third and regrettable fact that the honor and good name of West Virginia law and justice has been stained by the atrocity at Womelsdorf.

Garbage Collection Contracts.

Councilman Stevenson has surrendered the garbage contract ordinance, being satisfied its provisions are in conflict with the terms of the new charter, which prohibits the letting of any contract for more than one year. He proposes to retire the bill. That opens the subject for careful consideration up to next year. Complaints have been so numerous under the present system of collection—or non-collection—that there is unmistakable opportunity for improvement. Whether the contract is let to a new firm or to the one now in possession there should be more definite rules and compelling penalties. The city pays a good round sum for the work and should have effective service.

No Punishment by Proxy.

The Sultan of Binadayan has a great deal to learn of the American method of administering justice, but he is at present in a position offering unusual facilities for acquiring the knowledge he lacks. Capt. Pershing, of the Fifteenth cavalry, has the Sultan under arrest, and is holding him as a hostage for the delivery of the Moros who murderously attacked some Americans on June 22. The Sultan thought he was doing decidedly the handsome thing when he offered to produce the dead body of a relative of the Moro leader, and to surrender ten slaves, but this system of proxy punishment failed to appeal to Capt. Pershing's sense of justice. That officer entertains the idea that a Moro chief should not be allowed to do wrong and then make his relatives do the suffering for the crime. It may require the detention of the Sultan of Binadayan a week or two in order to enable him to master the rudiments of exact justice, on the American plan, but when he has learned them his attendance upon the school of experience should be valuable to him all the rest of his life.

No Divided Republican Party.

While devoted to a state platform that attempts to keep national issues out of sight, the Post cannot refrain from discussing them in its editorial columns. It seizes on the false report that the president has demanded of his cabinet officers that they stump the country by picturing the Republicans as divided on Cuban reciprocity, anti-trust legislation and the Philippine question, stating that the task before the president is "not so much to convert Democrats as to bring the Republican party in accord with his administration."

The Post is of course far from the truth. The Republican state conventions that have been held are the sufficient answer to its vain imaginings. They have without exception indorsed the policy of the administration at every point. On the questions of Cuban reciprocity, the trusts and the Philippines they are with the president as heartily as on the money question and protection. The Pennsylvania Republican convention voiced party sentiment in harmony with the administration, and the November election will give effect to its expressions. There will be no cabinet stumping tours to convert Republicans. They are not needed. Some men who have esteemed themselves Republican leaders may need conversion, but their states have taken them in hand and they will submit to public sentiment or give way to others who will.

It is somewhat interesting to also find the Post, in its pursuance of national topics, making the claim that the free silverites are "victors in the money battle," though, it admits, "not in the way they proposed." They were adherents of "the quantitative theory in money," and "the money supply has been increased by other means than the free coinage of silver." Therefore, as the Post would have it, we have prosperity because of much money, regardless of quality, and the advocates of the "heaven-born ratio" are vindicated. But how about the qualitative theory? What has it to do with prosperity? Had the silver men won, our currency would be now a debased currency and we would at this time be still feeling the effects of a panic produced by the debasing process, instead of enjoying the prosperity in which the Post takes comfort. The Republicans, fortunately, opposed the debasement, in spite of the defection of Teller and some other western men, and because of Republican adherence to the qualitative theory there is plenty of everything for everyone who will work. Quantity is not the summum bonum. Were it, the Post's waste of words might be wisdom. The Democratic party may adhere to its quantitative theory or quarrel about it, as it is doing, but the Republican party is united for quality with quantity, as heretofore. The safety of our institutions and the endurance of our prosperity are rooted in its policy and it will not be necessary for the president to endeavor to bring Republicans "in accord with his administration," either on the broad lines of party policy or on any detail of party policy, whether money, trusts, Cuban reciprocity or the Philippines. The president and his party, as party sentiment has been expressed by this year's state conventions and the national and state conventions of previous years, are in harmonious accord.

The Carnival of Crime.

There has been a carnival of crime and violence during the past few days wholly at variance with the theory that criminal impulses are most active during extremely warm weather. There have been no excessive temperatures this week. The outburst conforms, however, to the observed phenomena accompanying the falling barometer. Murder, suicide and accident have swept across the country in a wave preceding the barometer trough. Pittsburgh has suffered more than its fair share of the bloody harvest. So much more that it is a pertinent question what may be done to avert the malign influence accompanying the weather "low."

The answer is less complicated than the problem of causes. Right living is the best safeguard against the temptation to commit suicide and murder. Right living is a protection, not always against the malefactor with murder in his heart, but certainly against the violence that results from provoked anger. Some things are not within the control of the individual, but whoever tries earnestly to live right avoids a thousand dangers.

It is not flattering to the police departments of Pittsburgh and Allegheny that murderers can do their fiendish work and walk away without molestation, not to mention the rather frequent robberies committed with impunity. Probably the "yellow book" cannot be held responsible for all that is not right in the matter of securing the public safety, but there is no question something is wrong in the machinery.

An Example From Texas.

From the New York Tribune.

The Texan who hired a special train to Oyster Bay in order to be on time for an engagement at luncheon, instead of sending apologies and regrets by telegraph, set an example of strict regard for etiquette which will stir up enthusiasm in every county of the vast territory of the Lone Star state.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

According to the York Dispatch, "women often fancy themselves in love when they are not." Well, well, what of that? No searchlight is required even in this day to discover men who have been tarred with the same stick.

NEW YORK NOW THE SMOKY CITY

Resigned to Overshadowing of a Pall That Pittsburghers Wouldn't Bear.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 24.

It seems as if New York has made up its mind that the burning of soft coal is unavoidable while the strike of anthracite miners in Pennsylvania continues. While the board of health authorities declare that they will punish everyone violating the ordinance prohibiting the burning of bituminous coal without using a smoke consumer, and while they actually have induced the "L" company and some of the ferry lines to stop smoking so heavily, it is a fact that a pall of smoke and soot hangs over Manhattan such as would be regarded in Pittsburgh as unnecessary and outrageous. One of the delusions the hidebound New Yorker hugs to his bosom is that Pittsburgh is full of smoke and soot. He has passed through the city perhaps, and has seen that there are chimneys smoking in the neighborhood of the railroads, where the big mills are always breathing heavily, and he assumes that the whole of the city suffers under the same conditions. In New York there is smoke in residence districts such as would not be tolerated in Pittsburgh. Most of this smoke comes from the rivers, where impudent little tugs ply up and down, belching thick clouds of black smoke and sending it over the city for many blocks. It seems to be impossible to get at these tugs in the name of the law, for they are the principal offenders in this way. Some of the ferryboats are burning soft coal, too, and when one of these craft gets steam up and lets its volumes of smoke get fairly afield, it is time for one to stand from under. The smoke permeates everything. There are breweries and other industrial establishments along the river shores, too, which contribute their full share of soft coal smoke to the general grime. Manhattan island is a narrow strip of land between two rivers, as everyone knows, and when ferries, tugs and breweries are all smoking away together on either side of the island, there is a black old time for the long-suffering Gothamite.

May Yohe Takes Her Wrath With Her.

There was an expression on May Yohe's face as she stood on the deck of the steamer Fuerst Bismarck, just before it started today for Europe, that boded no good for the one that may have incurred her displeasure. If Putnam Bradlee Strong sees her coming in London, it is easy to believe he will brace himself for a strenuous interview. One feature of this spectacular sensation is the way some of the papers here refer to the young woman, who a year ago was always spoken of respectfully as Lady Hope. Today, in several of the New York papers, she is "the Yohe woman"—the most insulting combination of words that could be applied to any human being of her sex.

Secretary Root's Holiday Spirit.

Elihu Root, secretary of war, who sailed for Europe today on the French liner, La Savoie, takes a philosophical view of his vacation. He said that he was going to Carlsbad, and added: "During the time I am away, starting 10 minutes after the ship has sailed, I shall try to forget whether I am secretary of war, a lawyer, grocer clerk, or anything else." Is not that a good spirit in which to begin a holiday, whether you are a secretary of war or only just a plain citizen?

The New Vegetarian Restaurant.

Up and down Sixth avenue, in the shopping district, today was the "sandwich man," bearing on his signboard the announcement that the first vegetarian restaurant in Manhattan had just been opened. The menu is about the same as that in Brooklyn, which was given in The Gazette a few weeks ago; and that it appealed to a large portion of the community was shown by the crowd that had gone in. The fragrance of various savory dishes came forth from the doorway, and, doubtless, proved to be a better advertisement than the "sandwich man," although he was earning his pay honestly enough, too.

Capt. Gorman's Costly Blunder.

The police captain who had the assurance to order the park commissioner to "keep off the grass" in the park and was transferred to an undesirable precinct for his strict attention to duty, is in trouble again. His name is Gorman—Michael Gorman—and he is a fighter, of course; but he allowed one of his patrolmen to sign his daily police station report the other day so that he could catch a train for home, and he was up on a charge before Deputy Commissioner Thurston today. While no one says that Captain Michael Gorman can blame his quarrel with the park commissioner for his predicament today, old policemen say that it would have been better for Michael if he had exercised more discretion when trying to preserve the municipal grass. It is dangerous to bullyrag the wrong man in New York.

Ping-Pong Embellishments.

Although ping-pong is not quite such a popular game as it was a few weeks ago, there is still enough interest in it in New York to allow many little fads in connection with the bats. They are growing more ornamental every day. The latest idea is to decorate them with burnt-wood designs. One bat thus treated has a girl's face on the oval back of the bat and a floral design burnt on the leather-covered handle. Another bat is adorned by a mass of flowers, the stems tapering to the narrow confines of the handle and forming a very graceful decoration. These elaborately-decorated racquets are often made to order for tournament prizes, and in that case are embellished with inscriptions as well as the design. One strikingly ornamental bat seen in an up-town art store, where it had been made from a special design, was covered with green suede and bound with burnt leather. On the back, done with the hot needle off the pyrographer, was the graceful figure of a bathing girl on the beach. The handle was adorned with a series of little fat Cupids arrayed in bathing suits and with bathing hats tied under their chins.

Social Function Called a Spasm.

The "O. D. O.'s," which is said to be a Masonic order, will have its annual "spasm" tomorrow. It appears that the "spasm" is not so terrible a thing as its name implies. It is, in fact, merely another name for a river excursion, with a dinner included. It may be that the bill of fare will be responsible for the spasm. And, by the way, what is an "O. D. O." in Masonry? A cynical New Yorker interprets it as "Order of Dead Ones."

American Dressmakers Organize.

Dressmakers in New York are getting together. Articles of incorporation were filed today in the county clerk's office by the Dressmakers' Protective association, which has existed for several years as a mutual organization. The capital is fixed at $250,000 and the capital stock is divided into $10 shares, which can be had only by qualified dressmakers, members of the association, and the stock is all common and non-assessable. The objects of the association are to unite the dressmakers of the United States and enable them to compete with the European houses, both in this country and in Europe, a part of the plan being to open branch depots of the association in Paris, Vienna, Berlin and other European cities for the exhibition of American modes.

Miraculous Cures Reported.

As is usual at the Novena preceding the feast of St. Anne in this city, there are piling up along the altar of the church a large number of metal braces which have been cast aside by cripples cured by the application of the sacred relic and accompanying prayers. Thousands of afflicted persons are praying for relief in the church tonight. A number of miraculous cures are reported. The feast will take place tomorrow.

Mrs. Dulles' Held-up Jewels.

Whether or not Mrs. L. Harrison Dulles of Philadelphia is to retrieve her pearl necklace from the custom-house authorities, she has the satisfaction of knowing that the appraisement of its value agrees with that of Gen. Mindel, the jewel expert employed by the government. It is generally understood here that Mrs. Dulles will obtain possession of her jewels in due course, by paying the duty.

Rain an Enemy to Amusement.

The heavy rainstorm tonight was a hard blow to the dozen or so of theaters which are open in different parts of New York city. The rain came down steadily for hours when patrons of the playhouses would be getting ready to go, and, of course, the box offices suffered. As for the roof gardens, the uncovered ones collapsed, while those which are roofed in had about the slimmest attendance of the present month. Rain is worse than cold weather to New York amusement seekers.

A Fatal Month for Children.

Children have suffered greatly this summer from sickness, the health department reporting a heavier mortality among them for June than for many previous years. There is no particular reason given for this sad report. It seems that it "just happened so." The weather has been easier for infants this summer than usual, there having been very few dangerously hot days; but there are the official figures, and we are obliged to admit that there is a hygienic weakness somewhere.

Brooklyn Strikers Weaken.

The Brooklyn garment workers who went out on a sympathetic strike a week ago are tired of the business. There are 2,000 of them, and a majority are ready to go back to work at the old scale of wages. The strikers in Manhattan, down in the Ghetto, on the East Side, are disposed to stick it out for a while longer, however. They seem to find more fun in idling there than there is in Brooklyn.

Bathing Still Too Chilly.

It is still rather chilly for sea bathing in this neighborhood. Although Coney island attracts a multitude every fine day, and does fairly well even on a wet one, there is not such a general rush in the breakers as there may be next month. The bathing season at Coney does not get fairly going until well into August. Happily, there is plenty of fun at Coney without going into the sea, and the showmen and merchants along the Bowery and Surf avenue do thriving trade, no matter what may be the temperature of the water. There was a very large attendance at Coney island this afternoon, but when the rain began about 6 o'clock, the rush to the cars was something terrific. As late as midnight there were bedraggled women and tired children being dropped off the cars at the Manhattan end of the big bridge, and none of them seemed then to think the game was worth the candle. It will be different with them in the morning, when they have had a night's rest, especially if the sun should be shining.

Indignity to a Policeman Punished.

There is at least one striker in New York city who lacks discrimination. He is a Bohemian locksmith, and he had been posted as a picket near an iron railing factory on the far West Side to keep men from going to work in that place. A policeman came along and the Bohemian, an enthusiast in striking, called him a "scab." It took the policeman at least a minute to realize that anyone could have the temerity to assault his official dignity. Then he arose in his might and gathered in the Bohemian by the scruff of his neck. The prisoner was fined $10 and the policeman is wondering why the magistrate did not order him to be beheaded.

A Lawyer's Atrocious Intention.

Maurice Meyer, a lawyer, was very eager today to put one of the Sire brothers, managers of the New York theater, in jail. He did not gain his point, however, and the worst of it is there was nothing in the matter for the Sire press agent. He could not picture his employer in jail and expect to be praised for exploiting it in the newspapers. The trouble was over some legal quibble, and was easily adjusted; but the Rialto tonight is aghast at the bare idea of placing a theater manager, popularly reputed to be worth a million or so, behind prison bars in a cell that might not be any too clean.

The Tombs' Star Boarder Dead.

"Old George" is dead. Those who did not know "Old George" may be interested to learn that he was the star prisoner at the Tombs. He was in the habit of being arrested for vagrancy at intervals and spent most of the last 20 years in the gloomy old building. His name was George Towne, but he was generally known by the other familiar appellation. There was considerable mystery about Towne's early career, but many said that he was a younger son of a titled English family, and that after failure in business he became a vagrant. During the last 20 years he has been within the walls of the Tombs as much of the time as he has been at liberty. So well did he like the prison life that it was often suspected that he allowed himself to be apprehended for vagrancy or on some other minor charge in order that he might be incarcerated again. He was 54 years of age when he died.

Price of Coal Advances.

There was another advance in the retail price of coal today. From now on until the mines begin to ship coal to market all users of anthracite coal will have to pay $8 a ton for all sizes. This is an increase of 50 cents a ton to the users of domestic sizes and of 75 cents a ton to the users of steam sizes. The price of soft coal, which has been $5 for some time, will not be advanced, for the present, at least.

Doggerel Meant Something.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Many who have heard the Princeton students sing—

Oh, I've heard it said,
And I believe it's true,
That when a man dies
His nose turns blue,
His nose turns blue
By the light of the moon,
Oh Jimmy, Jimmy Johnson!

and other nonsensical doggerel in which Jimmy Johnson's claims to distinction are celebrated, may never have realized the deep significance of the name. Jimmy was a runaway slave who took refuge at Princeton long before the war. The students helped to purchase his liberty and he had been a figure on the campus for 63 years until he died the other day at the ripe age of 80. He was a kind of mascot, and the college will find it as difficult a matter to survive his taking off as will the University of Pennsylvania when it loses that faithful old negro known to many generations of students as "Pomp."

TOLERANT SPIRIT SHOWN DIVORCEES

Social Attitude of England and the Continent Radically Changed.

By The MARQUISE DE FONTEROY.

While Queen Alexandra has made it clear that she intends to maintain Queen Victoria's policy of barring from court women who have been divorced, and has even taken steps to extend this rule to Americans and foreigners desirous of appearing at the court of St. James, English society—by that I mean the great world of London—is becoming more and more indulgent. No matter how great the offense against society has been, it is forgotten and condoned, and no matter how great the scandal it is quickly relegated to oblivion providing its heroine possesses any courage, tact and cleverness.

Some 12 years have elapsed since the shocking Colin Campbell divorce case, in which the present Duke of Argyll's younger brother, Lord Colin Campbell, and his beautiful wife brought the most frightful charges against one another. True, the case was decided in favor of Lady Colin. But her conduct was held to have been so indiscreet that she was by common consent ostracized, the family of the duke of Argyll and likewise the reigning house—Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll, was her sister-in-law—being, of course, exceptionally bitter against her. Nor was her position improved when some years afterward the late duke of Marlborough, who had been cited by her husband as one of the co-respondents in the divorce case, was found at his death to have bequeathed to her a sum of $50,000. Ever since her appearance in the divorce court she has been earning her living in journalism, which was a still further cause of prejudice against her on the part of society, and for a time the road which she had to travel was a very hard one indeed. Yet today she is taken up once more by society, is met at many of the best houses, and has become the intimate friend and constant associate of the beautiful young duchess of Sutherland.

Other Celebrated Cases.

Lady Marcus Beresford meets with the most cordial welcome everywhere, goes out a great deal, and is met at houses even as exclusive as that of the duchess of Portland. Yet she has figured not only in one but in several divorce cases, in one of which, when she was still Mrs. Charlie Buller, the queen's proctor intervened owing to the discovery that even while the suit was in progress Charlie Buller, the petitioner, was in the habit of dining as a guest at the house of the correspondent, Lord Marcus, where Mrs. Buller, the respondent, was doing the honors of the establishment. Lady Marcus owes the recovery of her position in society largely to her cleverness in organizing the National Cat society on the same lines as the National Kennel association of Great Britain. Lord Marcus is a member of the king's household and has charge of the sovereign's racing stables.

Lady Sophie Scott, daughter of the present viceroy of Ireland, appeared only last year as the correspondent in a suit brought by the wife of a fellow officer of her husband, and which resulted in the divorce being granted on the strength of the evidence produced in court against Lady Sophie. Yet today society has apparently forgotten all about the affair, and at any rate has followed the example of the indulgent husband in forgiving it. For Lady Sophie is not merely back in society with her picture constantly appearing of late as one of the fashionable beauties of the day in the so-called society papers, but when she lost her four-weeks-old baby the other day, was condoled with in person by the ladies of the royal family.

Then there is a lady whose name 18 months ago was on every tongue and printed in full letters in the newspapers, both of the old and the new world, as the respondent in a then impending divorce suit, in which one of the co-respondents was to be an immensely wealthy duke. At the last moment the matter was settled out of court, it is said largely thanks to the intervention of King Edward as a mediator, and today the lady is seen everywhere in London with her husband, who remains at the head of his regiment.

Queen of Servia Benefited.

If I draw attention to this altered attitude of English society it is not by way of complaint, but merely by way of taking note and placing on record. Society has been so harsh and relentless in the past in many of its judgments, that it is pleasant to see it developing more and more that particular virtue without the possession of which there is according to the Founder of the Christian religion no salvation, namely the virtue of charity.

After this discussion it is quite natural that I should be led to talk of the present queen of Servia. She, too, is benefiting by that wave of charity which seems to be sweeping, not only over England, but likewise over the entire continent of Europe. For in spite of her past, she is at length to have her greatest ambition crowned, and is to be received by the czar and czarina as a distinguished guest with all the honors due to a crowned head. The much discussed and repeatedly postponed visit of the royal Servian couple to the Russian emperor and empress is now definitely fixed for the last week in September, and will take place, not at St. Petersburg, but at Lividia, where the czar and czarina will be at the time. The king and queen of Servia will travel by water, that is to say down the Danube on board the yacht recently presented to them by the city of Belgrade, until they reach Rent, where they will be met by the Russian imperial train, which will convey them to Lividia. Yet Queen Draga notoriously lived for two full years with her present husband before her relations with him were legitimized by the church for the sake of qualifying for the succession to the throne a child that never came, and which according to many was to have been foisted upon the king and upon the people of Servia by means of a fraud. Moreover Queen Draga, who was formerly a member of the household of Queen Natalie, was dismissed in disgrace by the latter—that is according to Natalie's story, for gross misconduct.

Curzon Has an Ambition.

No one need be astonished that Lord Curzon should be anxious to get back to England, and that he is heartily sick of his viceroyalty. For he has been quick to realize that the position which he holds, and of which he has made the most, is more ornamental than real, and that the real seat of the government of the great Indian empire is not at Calcutta or at Simla, but at the so-called India office in London. It is not the viceroy of India out in the orient, but the secretary of state for India, on the banks of the Thames, who controls the destinies of King Edward's near 300,000,000 subjects in Hindustan, and his authority is all the greater from the fact that India being without any representative form of government, the rule of the secretary of state is virtually absolute and despotic. Lord Curzon realizes that if he really wishes to govern India he must give up the decorative and lucrative office of viceroy of Calcutta, return home and succeed Lord George Hamilton as secretary of state for India—and that is what I understand he is about to do.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Samuel Patterson.

Samuel Patterson, one of the oldest residents of Carnegie, died at his home in Beechwood avenue at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in his 87th year. He had been ill for several months. Mr. Patterson was born in Wilmington, Del., on November 14, 1815. In 1818 he removed to Pittsburgh with his parents. After a few years in this city they moved to Bishop, where Mr. Patterson was reared on the old Dixon farm. When a young man he removed to Manorville, Armstrong county, and in 1837 he married Miss Margaret Beatty of that place. A few years later Mr. Patterson returned to Allegheny county, locating at Carnegie. In 1856 he established a wagon manufactory in Carnegie, then Mansfield borough. He was identified with this business for many years, being senior member of the old firm of Patterson & Kearns. The firm manufactured wagons in the Chartiers valley before steam had come into use and made many vehicles which traveled over the old Steubenville and Washington pikes. Mr. Kearns, his partner, died in December of last year, aged 87 years. Mr. Patterson retired from business several years ago and resided with his son, J. G. Patterson, in Library hill. His wife died in 1890. He was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church, and one of the oldest members of the First Presbyterian church of Carnegie. Mr. Patterson was a Republican in politics, but never held an office. He is survived by six children: William M. Patterson of Manorville, Armstrong county; Samuel H. Patterson and J. G. Patterson of Carnegie, Mrs. John Sheriff, Mrs. George Perry and Mrs. William Sheriff, all of this city. The funeral services will be held at the home of his son, J. G. Patterson, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, and the interment will take place in Unlondale cemetery, Allegheny.

Mrs. Martha Wilmot.

Mrs. Martha Wilmot, 77 years old, a member of one of Pittsburgh's oldest families and a large land holder in Oakland, died early yesterday morning at the family home, Wilmot and Bouquet streets, Oakland. Mrs. Wilmot was the widow of Capt. Willis G. Wilmot, a former well-known rivernian, who died about four years ago in New Orleans after taking a new vessel to that city. Mrs. Wilmot resided with a daughter, Mrs. Adele M. Morrison, whose husband, Capt. Theophilus W. Morrison, was killed in the battle of El Caney, Cuba, during the Spanish-American war.

William A. Reagan.

William A. Reagan, 53 years old, died at his boarding house in Westinghouse avenue, Wilmerding, yesterday. Mr. Reagan was a widower, his wife having died about a year ago. He has been living in Wilmerding for about 15 years. The Knights of Pythias will have charge of the funeral. One daughter survives.

Mrs. Hiram E. Boyd.

Mrs. Jennie Burgan Boyd, wife of Hiram E. Boyd, an electrotyper, employed by the Pittsburgh Printing Company, died yesterday morning at the family home, No. 137 Flowers avenue, Hazelwood, of consumption. Mrs. Boyd had been a resident of Pittsburgh since last fall, when the family moved here from Akron, O., to which place her remains will be taken for interment.

PERSONALS.

"The Twentieth Century diamond is becoming a good seller," said A. H. Wittstein, a manufacturing jeweler of New York and Chicago, who was a passenger on the Pennsylvania limited last evening returning to his headquarters at Chicago after a visit to the New York branch of the firm. "The new method of cutting diamonds, which has been given the name 'Twentieth Century,' was discovered only last fall, and its greatest development has been made this spring and summer. Now diamonds no larger than three-eighths of a carat are cut in this way. The difference between this cutting and the old is in the top of the stone. Instead of the flat top, or 'table,' as it is called, the top is brought to a point like a pyramid, with facets around it. It has been worked out mathematically that in this manner a more perfect refraction of light is obtained and hence the brilliancy of the stone is increased fully 25 per cent. This method of cutting is more difficult on account of the greater precision required to get the planes just right, and the price is higher than for diamonds cut in the old fashion. Nevertheless, the additional brilliancy more than makes up for the difference in price."

"The 42-acre fair ground at Washington, Pa., belonging to the Western Pennsylvania Agricultural association, was sold today for $80,000 to John H. Murdock, an attorney of Washington," said Joseph Hemphill, a resident of that town, who was at the Union station last evening en route to Chicago. "Mr. Murdock is supposed to have made the purchase in the interest of a majority of the stockholders who purpose to lay the land out in lots, as it is in a rapidly-growing section of the city, and will be available for either residence or manufacturing purposes." It has been rumored that the Wabash had bought the ground, but it is not believed now that this report was true.

A business meeting of a number of manufacturers of enameled ware was held at the Lincoln yesterday, the call for the meeting being issued by Francis J. Torrance, vice president of the Standard Manufacturing Company of this city. Only routine matters were discussed, it was stated. Those attending the meeting beside Mr. Torrance, were W. M. Holderman, Indianapolis, Ind.; E. E. Ewers, Winona Lake, Ind.; C. L. Rundell, Milwaukee, Wis.; Alan D. Wood, Philadelphia; J. H. Mueller, Rome, N. Y., and Anton Weiskittle, Baltimore.

"Work has now been well started on the construction of the new lines of the West Side Belt railroad, from Bruce station, on the Wheeling branch of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, to Clairton, on the Monongahela river above McKeesport," said T. W. Edmundson of the firm of Ferguson & Co., which has the contract for the work. Mr. Edmundson is stopping at the Duquesne.

The largest Atlantic City excursion of this section was run over the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday. There were 10 sections of the regular trains and 45 Pullman and 35 day coaches were required to carry the 8,000 people, who left town. Four of the extra sections were run in the morning and six on the evening trains.

Col. Joseph U. Crawford, engineer of branch lines of the Pennsylvania railroad, is at the Duquesne.

Mrs. J. R. Beatty and daughter, Miss Gertrude, of Washington avenue, Edgewood, left yesterday to spend two weeks at Cape May.

CHARGES MADE BY WIFE ARE DENIED BY DR. C. B. WEIDA

Says He Never Told Her He Feared Interference at Their Wedding.

DID NOT STAY OUT NIGHTS

Physician Alleges He Never Accused Mrs. Weida of Unfaithfulness, Nor Did He Attempt to Break Into Her Sister's Room.

In the divorce suit of Anna A. Weida against Dr. Charles A. Weida of Braddock, which alleges cruelty, an answer was filed by Dr. Weida in which he denies the charge. He says it is not true that he compelled her to leave his home on account of cruel and barbarous treatment, and denies that he was intoxicated on the night of their wedding, or that he afterward told her he was drunk during the ceremony.

The respondent avers that he never made a statement to his wife to the effect that he employed a detective to watch that a certain girl did not interfere with his marriage on the evening of the ceremony, or that he ever showed his wife a picture of the girl. He claims it is also untrue that the girl was at his office the night before his marriage, and that he had a hard time getting away from her.

Dr. Weida denies that he went home every night under the influence of liquor or morphine when they lived at Hawkins station. He avers he never used vile language towards his wife or that he taunted her by saying that other women had called at his office previous to his marriage and that they could continue to do so when married. If Mrs. Weida ever called his office by telephone and the call was answered by a girl, he says it was entirely without his sanction or knowledge. He claims a man was employed to answer his telephone and attend the office.

It is denied that he ever accused his wife of unfaithfulness or followed her, watching her actions from behind sheds, telephone poles, etc., or that he prowled around her father's house watching her through the windows.

He denies that he ever remained away from home two or three nights at a time, leaving his wife in want for provisions, and claims he was never away at night or for meals, except when his business required it. He says he never threatened to kill his wife, stating that he had several razors about the house, but kept them to shave himself with.

Dr. Weida denies that he attempted to force his way into the room occupied by his wife and her sister on the night before she left him; he adds that he had returned from a professional call and failing to find his wife in her room searched the house for her. He alleges he always provided well for his wife.

GRANDSON LOSES CASE.

Judge Hawkins Refused to Allow Judgment Note to Be Collected. Wills Filed.

Judge W. G. Hawkins handed down an interesting opinion in the matter of the estate of Mrs. Barbara Farmerie. The circumstances of the case suggest a question whether or not a judgment note, presented for allowance, was obtained by means of undue advantage taken of the decedent.

The note is dated June 16, 1898, at a time when Mrs. Farmerie was 86 years old. She died two years later. Frank Golia, the payee, was her grandson. He was raised and lived with her until his marriage and acted as her agent.

It was alleged the note was given in consideration of certain improvements made on property leased by him from his grandmother. The lease was made in 1895 and contained a stipulation that Golia should have the privilege of taking all the improvements put on the premises at the end of 25 years, but Golia alleged he sold them to his grandmother for the amount of the note. No one was consulted and one of the witnesses to the transaction was a deaf mute.

In part Judge Hawkins says: "It is absurd to say that any prudent man would take a 25-year lease upon the strength of so long a term. They were voluntarily placed there by the lessee for his own use and there is no apparent reason why Mrs. Farmerie should buy them.

"On one side stands a grandson, whom the decedent had taken in his infancy and raised as her own son, and toward whom she stood in a confidential business relation, who by secret contrivance gains advantage, and on the other side stood his foster-mother, far advanced in life, without the aid of friends or counsel, who is not only without advantage, but placed at absolute disadvantage by the transaction. In these circumstances no court of justice could sustain the claim made on this note, for it is without equity and without consideration." A decree in the estate shows a balance of $1,102 34.

A decree in the distribution in the estate of Sophia Haber shows a balance of $5,235 01.

Mary Burke filed a caveat against the probate of a paper purported to be the will of her father, Thomas H. of Braddock.

The account of the administrator of the estate of Susan Payne shows a balance of $3,324 05.

By an account filed it is shown that the profits of Christopher Zug, at the time of his death, from Zug & Co., were $47,974 60.

By the will of Conrad Reithmiller, late of Sharpsburg, a $4,150 estate is left to his wife.

Government Contractors Sued.

In the United States circuit court a statement was filed in the suit of the Frick & Lindsay Company against E. J. Hingston, Olaf R. Pihl and the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company. It is an action to recover $2,008 60 for materials furnished for the construction of a coffer dam foundation, piers, and abutment for a part movable dam and cribs, and erecting chanoine wickets at Herrs Island lock and dam, Allegheny.

John Hoehl issued an execution against Wengel Hemel for $850.

The master in the divorce case of Mary A. Kittenmeyer recommended a decree be granted on the ground of desertion.

Philip H. Kountz sued C. E. McPherson for $2,000 damages for alleged false arrest. It is claimed by Kountz that the defendant had him arrested upon a charge of aggravated assault and battery.

Thomas M. Van Der Veer filed a bill in equity against Charles and Catherine Monheim to compel them to convey property in the Eleventh ward, Allegheny, to him for $20,000 under an agreement.

William Southwell filed a libel in divorce against Alice O. Southwell. They were married in Canada, February, 1901. Infidelity is charged; also that his wife married Alexander E. Baker without having obtained a divorce.

The Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company filed a bill in equity against J. A. Good. It is claimed the defendant intends drilling a well that will interfere with the plaintiff's plant in Leet township. It is asked that he be restrained from locating it at any point on the property, except that designated by the plaintiff company.

In the United States district court a petition was filed by W. H. Van Tine, president of the Van Tine-Constable Company, bankrupt, asking that the order of court directing the receiver to sell property of the company be revoked. He says that there is a chance of settlement with the creditors and a continuance of the firm's business. He also claims that by a forced sale the goods will be sacrificed.

Henry Engelhart and members of his family entered three suits against the Pennsylvania Water Company for damages. Upon April 10 last a main owned by the company broke near Wilkinsburg avenue, in Sterrett township. It is alleged the house was completely destroyed by the flow of water; that Ida Engelhart, a daughter was killed; that another daughter, Lillian, was hurt, and that the father was injured.

THE PINEAPPLE.

Whose Cooling Juices and Agreeable Flavor Make It Essentially a Hot Weather Fruit.

The pineapple holds a higher position as a food in the tropics than with us; not by reason of its superiority in chemical composition, but because it furnishes a food agreeable in flavor, that does not produce heat, while its juices are just sufficiently stimulating to the taste and furnish moisture for the mouth in most delightful form.

While we do not suffer from lack of cooling and juicy fruits which cannot be surpassed in their lusciousness of flavor, the pineapple has a very decided individuality of flavor that makes it a pleasant and welcome addition to our fruitage, and we will soon learn to appreciate this tropical though American product as thoroughly as it deserves. Each year brings a greater abundance of this fruit to our markets and while this has the effect of cheapening them the higher cultivation and care they are receiving are bringing them each year to a higher state of perfection, while the facilities for rapid transportation permit the growers to allow the fruit to ripen more perfectly before it is gathered, and no matter how far we may be from the land of its production, we may now obtain it in a rather perishable fruit with the very taste of the sunshine in its mellow heart.

When this fruit is thoroughly ripened the nature of its juices and their soft cellular tissue which is readily broken down and digested, makes it a very wholesome and under ordinary conditions, digestible food. The very small amount of waste material in a ripe pineapple is an advantage, as it gives bulk to the food, but in some cases when the stomach is very weak and sensitive, and irritated most likely by other indigestible food substances, the fibre of the pineapple and other kinds of fruit as well will cause serious discomfort. The juice when taken alone, however, causes no trouble, but is decidedly beneficial.

When the pineapple is sufficiently ripe and mellow to be eaten raw, pare it, cut in dice or small pieces, rejecting the core; sprinkle lightly with sugar and just before serving pour over it a cup of strained and chilled orange juice.

Mrs. J. D. T. writes: Will you oblige a regular reader with the following two recipes if convenient—fruit souffle and cocoa parfait?

Fruit Souffle.

Cover half a package of gelatine with half a cup of cold water and soak an hour, then add half a cup of boiling water and stir until dissolved. Mix a pint of granulated sugar with a pint of orange, lemon and strawberry juice mixed—the lemon in smallest proportion. Cook just long enough to form a syrup, then turn into a basin and set on ice. Strain the gelatine into this and stir until it begins to thicken. Fold in lightly and quickly a quart of whipped cream, turn into an ice cream mould and pack in ice and salt for two hours.

Cocoa Parfait.

Make a cup of thick, rich cocoa with boiling water and sweeten with a cup of powdered sugar. Flavor with vanilla and when cold pour it gradually into a quart of double cream. Have all thoroughly chilled and then whip to a dry froth. Turn into a mould and cover closely and imbed in ice and salt and let stand three hours. This will take longer to freeze than some other creams.

"Who Did It," is the title of the beautiful Free Art Supplement with next Sunday's Gazette.

BODY'S DAILY FUEL SUPPLY.

Man needs a certain amount of food to run his body, just as an engine needs coal, water, oil and repairs. Starch is by far the most important part of man's diet, this "coal" being about four times the required quantity of "oil and repairs." Starchy foods should be dextrinized, however, as they overwork the stomach. The easiest, most appetizing and best way to secure the necessary starch is through the use of that thoroughly cooked cereal, Toasted Wheat Flakes. It makes an ideal starch-dextrinized food—ideal in that it gives the amount of energy required; ideal because being delicately sweetened with Malt Honey, it tempts the palate; ideal because it furnishes the starch dextrinized for rapid and easy assimilation; thus saving the stomach this work. Genuine packages show the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Society

MANY of the Pittsburgh people who went abroad earlier in the season are turning their faces homeward. Mr. and Mrs. George Westinghouse, who sailed from New York in May, spent several weeks in London and since have been making a round of visits and coaching parties in Scotland, are expected back in New York August 11. Miss Violet Brocklebank, who spent last winter with Mrs. Westinghouse in this country, sailing with her in May for England, is to return for another season in Washington. The Westinghouse party will be accompanied home by a large party of English guests, who will be entertained at Erskine Park, the Westinghouse place in Lenox, Mass., during the autumn. Erskine Park is one of the many fine place estates at Lenox, and contains several miles of fine drives.

The Adirondacks is even more popular this season than before. Senator M. S. Quay's cottage, the "Shawnee Camp," on Lake Placid, has had a number of visitors this summer. The family is occupying it during the season. The formal acceptance by Miss Susan Quay, the senator's daughter, of the invitation to christen the new cruiser, Pennsylvania, has been particularly gratifying to patriotic women, for Miss Quay is a member of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The approaching naval maneuvers in Long Island sound in August are raising the summer residents at Watch Hill, R. I., to a high pitch of excitement. Fort Mansfield is but a mile from Watch Hill, and with a large company of soldiers stationed there, with big disappearing guns and smaller rapid-firing guns, and the penetrating searchlights, the summer residents, among whom are several prominent Pittsburgh families, are anticipating a novel and exceedingly interesting experience. The Park Painters have a cottage on the bluff overlooking the sound, and with glasses can scan the waters of Long Island sound and Fishers sound for miles. The play at naval warfare, when New York is attacked, will be peculiarly interesting. Then will follow the annual cruise of the New York Yacht club, which always includes Watch Hill in its itinerary as the yachts proceed out to sea.

Mrs. W. DeWees Wood has been entertaining Mrs. Max Moorhead of Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside, at her summer home, St. Johns Manor, Ritchfield Springs, N. Y., which is having a particularly gay season this year.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan Johnson and their eldest daughter, Miss Thea Johnson, leave for Atlantic City and will spend several weeks at the "Denis." They will be joined there by Miss Edna Johnson, who has been visiting Miss Scudder, and Miss Margherite Johnson, who has been a member of a house party entertained by Mrs. Park Painter at Watch Hill.

Mr. Thomas S. Schultz of the East End is staying at the "Ampersand," Saranac Lake. Gov. William A. Stone also goes this week to the Adirondacks. Thomas A. Hancock and his daughter, Miss Gertrude M. Hancock of Rural avenue, East End, are at Atlantic City. They will visit Burlington, N. J., Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia before returning home.

Judge John M. Kennedy, who has been spending the past two months in Europe, is again at home at "The Oaks," Wilkins avenue. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Coffin and their daughter, Miss Mary C. Coffin of Baum street, East End, have returned home after spending several weeks at Sea Girt, N. J.

Miss Lois Wainwright Abbott left yesterday to visit Miss Marion McLean at Saegertown Inn, Saegertown, where Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. McLean and their daughter and son are spending the summer.

Summering on the Cheat River.

Many people go to Southern Pennsylvania and to West Virginia for a brief summer outing. The Cheat river region this summer is as popular as ever. At the Castle Kelser hotel the past week have been Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ritchie, B. Frantz, Frank Ewing, Edward Stemple, Frank Reese, Miss Jennie Gaston, Miss Rosa Gaston, Miss Kate Ebert, Miss Sarah Meredith, Miss Jennie Fleming of Fairmont, W. Va.; R. R. Ritchie, J. W. Kunkle, Mrs. George E. Boyd, Miss Jean Ritchie, J. W. Kunkle, Miss Douthat, Morgantown; Miss Nora Miller, Miss Essie Eakas of Hagerstown, Md.; Dr. J. E. McGee of Brownsville, A. P. Hall of Erie, Pat Collier, Paul Regan, William H. Moore, Eugene Miller, Charles McCarmick, B. Rush, D. A. Colwell, Harry Jacquette, of Uniontown; the Misses Abraham of New York, Miss Mary Wells of Boston and Miss Blanche McCann, Mrs. Slater and her sons and the Misses Miller from Pittsburgh.

Morning Euchre Party at Sewickley.

A pretty card party was given yesterday morning by Miss Louise Baker, at her home in Graham street, Sewickley. About 30 of her friends were present. The affair was in honor of her guest, Miss Mitchell of New York city. The game was six-hand euchre, five tables being used. The house was tastily decorated with cut flowers. Dainty refreshments were served after the euchre. The prize winners were: For points, Miss Margaret Smith; lone hands, Miss Elizabeth McKown; consolation prize, Mrs. Samuel Wilson.

Wedding at New Castle.

A wedding of importance occurred at New Castle Wednesday night, when Charles D. Cobau, cashier of the First National bank of Ellwood, was married to Miss Nettie Clark, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Clark of Pearson street. The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Tyler, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, officiated, and the guests included only the immediate relatives and the officials of the Citizens' National bank of New Castle, where the groom was formerly teller before being elected, last week, to his present position.

Have Gone to Colorado.

Miss Blanche S. Ackley and her sister, Mrs. A. K. Bratton of this city left Wednesday night for Denver, Col., where they are going for the benefit of Miss Ackley's health. Mrs. Bratton will return in three weeks, while Miss Ackley's stay will be of indefinite length. She will be joined by her niece, Miss Edna M. Huber of Oakland, the middle of August.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Delphia Blanche Liller of Keyser, W. Va., and William J. O'Neil of Sewickley, has been announced. The wedding will take place on the morning of August 6, at the home of the bride. At-home days after August 18, at their new home, No. 420 Beaver street, Sewickley, have been announced.

Music at the Country Club.

The American Military band gave a concert at the Country club, the second of this season. Consequently more of the younger people drove out to the club, and there was dancing.

Notes of Society.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Beil of Wood street, Wilkinsburg, will leave soon to spend the remainder of the summer in West Virginia.

Miss Elizabeth Stevenson of South Negley avenue and William S. Stevenson of Fairmont, W. Va., came home this week after spending two months at Atlantic City and Markleton.

The Ushers club of St. Brigid's Roman Catholic church gave a successful lawn fete last evening at Lenwood lawn, Larimer avenue, East End. There was a large number of guests and elaborate arrangements for their entertainment were made by the committee in charge of the reception and dance.

CHAUTAUQUA.

Dr. Iynaga Says the Regeneration of China Is the Mission of Japan.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 24.—(Special.)—Dr. Tynaga gave the third lecture today on the far east, discussing the problem of China. China, he says, will never be recognized from within. The Chinese are devoid of patriotism, of martial spirit and of love of civil and political liberty. The common people are kept in ignorance of the administration, which is the most corrupt that can be imagined.

Missionaries to China make many blunders. The general knowledge they diffuse is invaluable, but when they attack old customs and the teachings of Confucius, the Chinese revolt, for they are proud of their antiquity.

"I say, in all sincerity," said the lecturer, "that the little good the missionaries do in China is not worth the money, time and lives spent in trying to Christianize a nation that dislikes them and hardly tolerates their presence in the land. Westerners can never understand the Chinese. It is the mission of Japan to mediate between China and the western powers. Only through Japan can China be reached. It is the mission of the United States to aid Japan in her efforts to regenerate China.

"The key to the problem of China is this: If England, the United States and Japan stand together on this question, China will stand; if they are divided, China will fall."

JIMMIE JOHNSON BURIED.

Casket of the Princeton Vendor Laid Away Under Pretty Flowers.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 24.—(Special.)—Jimmie Johnson, who for more than three score years was a familiar figure on Old Nassau's campus, where he sold candies, peanuts and other sweetmeats to the undergraduates, was buried this afternoon in the family plot in Princeton cemetery. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held in the colored church, where he had worshiped for 30 years. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Leonard Johnson, delivered a beautiful eulogy over his deceased parishioner, and former Presiding Elder Samson also made an address.

The oak of the casket was buried beneath roses. A bunch of white tiger lilies resting in his right hand was suggestive of his loyalty to Princeton. One of the floral designs contained the inscription, "From Jimmie's College Friends."

League Games Today.

Pittsburgh at St. Louis.
Brooklyn at New York.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—The Pirates were ready to mob Umpire Brown at the end of the ninth inning today, when two close decisions had permitted the Cardinals to win the game in a fierce ninth inning rally. The score was 4 to 3 in favor of the Champions when Germany Hartman came to bat in the last half of the ninth. He hit the first ball pitched for a single through center. Mike O'Neil got up to bunt the ball, but Chesbro landed one of his benders in the big catcher's ribs, and he ambled to first.

With nobody out Pitcher Joyce O'Neil flew out to Ritchey, but Nichols made good with a single to center, scoring Hartman. Smoot hit weakly to short, and Conroy threw to first to get the runner out. Before the ball could be returned to the plate, O'Neil had scored the winning run.

The Excitement Was Great.

If there was pandemonium at League park yesterday when the Cardinals lambasted the Pirates all over the field, there is no term fit to describe the scene when the Cardinals took this second bitterly-fought game from the champions. Donovan and his men were escorted from the field by hundreds of howling, cheering men. The National league team has again made good and from now on, it is an assured fact that Mr. Robison will get his share of local baseball patronage.

Hans Wagner was out of the game today owing to his suspension by the National league board of control for disobeying Umpire Brown yesterday. Wagner questioned one of Brown's decisions and was ordered to the bench. As he still insisted on protesting he was ordered off the field. He declared he would not go, but finally went off toward the right field bleachers, where he sat down and spent the balance of the afternoon explaining to the rooters how Brown had mistreated him. Tannehill took his place in right.

Pirates Started Off Well.

The Pirates meant to win today's game and started out properly to do so. Burke led off in the second with a double, and scored on Conroy's sacrifice and O'Connor's fly to Smoot. In the fourth, Tannehill walked, Bransfield doubled and Burke walked. Conroy hit into a double, but Tannehill scored on the play. O'Connor tripled to left, scoring Bransfield. That was the end of the Pirates' scoring. The Cardinals got one man over the plate in the third and another in the fifth, the two runs in the ninth giving them the game.

Record-breaking crowds are expected at the final games of the series to-morrow and Sunday. Score:

Chicago Bunched Hits and the Umpire Helped.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The locals scored three runs by bunching three hits, an error and a questionable decision at the plate. The visitors' two runs resulted from three singles and a double. Excepting in the innings in which each team scored it was decidedly a pitchers' battle. Attendance, 8,000. Score:

ELK TEAMS WILL MEET.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny Lodges Get After Each Other.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock teams from Pittsburgh lodge No. 11 and Allegheny lodge No. 329 will play a game of ball at Exposition park for the championship of Western Pennsylvania. This promises to be a very interesting game, as the winning team will be pitted against some of the teams representing some of the eastern lodges, such as Philadelphia and New York. Wonderful interest has been shown in this game and a very large attendance is looked for.

Pittsburgh lodge will have as its battery the famous Homestead players, Thomas Quinn and Alexander Jones, also ex-leaguers who are members of Pittsburgh lodge. All the other players have at one time or another played with the leading amateur teams in and around Pittsburgh. "Ad." Gumbert, the famous twirler who played at one time with the Pirates, will cover first base. Several $100-bets have already been recorded, the betting being even. There will be no charge for ladies, they being admitted free. In case of rain the game will be played on Monday.

Tennis Experts Will Fight It Out Today.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The finals in the western championship tournament will be fought out tomorrow between Waidner and Collins, two team mates of the Kenwood Tennis club. The winner will meet Champion Little on Monday for the championship. Alexander of Princeton, who was considered a probable winner of the championship, was defeated today in the semi-finals by Waidner, after a hard and brilliant contest. Paterson, the Canadian, proved an easy victim in the semi-finals for Collins. Play in the doubles was brought up to the semi-final round.

NAPIER WON HIS GAME.

Pittsburgh's Expert Defeated the Great Pillsbury.

HANOVER, July 24.—Today's play in the international chessmasters' tournament was devoted to the finishing of all the adjourned games from previous rounds. Levin and Napier, Tschigorin and Atkins and Napier and Pillsbury had adjourned contests in hand. Levin, who at the adjournment of his game on Monday had a good winning chance against Napier, beat the latter today. Atkins and Tschigorin, who had left their game unfinished in an even position on Tuesday, made a draw of the contest. The Pillsbury-Napier game, which was adjourned from the second round played on Tuesday, when the latter had a winning advantage in the morning sitting but lost ground in the afternoon, started today on really even terms, and Napier eventually won.

PASSENGERS HAD A FRIGHT.

Edgar Cherry Roared for Five Hours Before Mud Drum Was Fixed.

The steamboat Edgar Cherry, when she left yesterday afternoon for Morgantown, was loaded to the guards and had a good passenger list. The boat was near Braddock when she nearly frightened the passengers to death by the steam coming in torrents and with a frightful roar from her mud drum. The boat was put in to the foot of Eighth street at 4 o'clock.

She lay there until 9 o'clock. Everybody on the boat was working at that mud drum which persisted in roaring. Finally the roaring ceased. There was a good deal of hammering, some swearing by the mate, and after a jingling of bells the boat put up the river.

Two Negroes Working in Wabash Tunnel Injured and One Will Die.

Two negroes who were working in the Mt. Washington tunnel of the Wabash railroad were hurt yesterday and one of them is expected to die. The accident happened near the entrance to the tunnel, back of the Elgham property.

There was a big rock sticking out of the side of the tunnel and while the men were working under it it fell. Clarence Perry, 27 years old, had a half-dozen ribs broken. John Henry, 22 years old, had his scalp cut. Perry is at the Homeopathic hospital and probably will die. He lives at No. 70 Roberts street.

BENNY MUNROE WILL RIDE AGAIN

POPULAR LITTLE FACE FOLLOWER TO GET A TEST.

The Rider to Be Pitted Against Him Will Be Tommy Hall or Otto Maya, Both of Whom Are Fast—Good Amateur Events.

For the meet on Monday night the management of the Colosseum track in Allegheny has arranged a card that will prove of great interest to the followers of bicycle racing in this city. Benny Munroe, the speedy little rider from Memphis, Tenn., who is so well known here through his previous performances at the local track this season, will be here again. Munroe is now following one of the big ten-horse power motors, and with the improvement in his riding that has come since the beginning of the season he is making much faster time than he did when here before. The management is now making arrangements with two men to ride against him on Monday night, but it has not yet been decided who his opponent will be, as the details of the match have not yet been completed. Negotiations are on between Tommy Hall, the English pace follower, and Otto Maya, the fast Erie man, and one or the other will be here on Monday night. The match is being arranged by telegraph from this city and a definite answer to the propositions will be received some time today.

Both Maya and Hall are well known here. Hall rode the first race on the Colosseum track when it opened this season, and he gathered quite a following here. Maya was entered in a race here, but just a few days before it was to have been run it will be remembered that Maya was hurt while trying to ride a single motor. Since that time he has stuck to following the pace, and he has shown good form in all the races where he has been entered.

The amateur events for Monday night will be a two-thirds of a mile handicap and a one-half mile novice. The entries for these events will close at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, and the management has announced that all riders who wish to compete must have their entries in by that time or they will not be allowed to start in the races on Monday night.

WERE CLOSE TO RECORDS

Three Favorites and One Outsider Carried Off the Cash—Daphne Dallas Showed Great Work When She Won the 2:11 Pace.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cleveland, O., July 24.—Three favorites and an outsider won at the Grand Circuit meeting today in races characterized either by close finishes or sensational time. Darwin was the selection for the opening race, and Lord March was the second choice. The showing made by the Geers entry in the first two heats caused a break of the money toward him. He was all in after the first half of the third mile had been raced, and then caught the flag on the next trip. Wentworth loomed up in the third heat and was able to outfoot Darwin, always the contender.

Daphne Dallas was made the favorite in the 2:11 pace, with Dick See as a strong second. The pace was terrific all the way and all seemed lost to the Dallas mare after she was nosed out of the third heat. She chased Casconda out in the fourth heat and then won in the fifth by beating him in the stretch.

Favorite Anzella clipped a second off her record to win the initial heat of the 2:12 trot and repeated it in exactly the same time. There was a hard fight for the race.

Greenline was a strong favorite for the 2:17 pace and he was never in real danger at any time in the two trips. Frank Erwin, driver of You Bet in the 2:11 pace, was unseated in the third heat, but was put back again for the next one. Attendance 10,000. Summaries:

BRIGHTON OAKS WON BY HATASOO

FEATHERSTONE FILLY RAN A REMARKABLE RACE.

Carried 124 Pounds and Surprised the Talent by Her Going—Sister Juliet Played for a Good Thing, but Failed to Land.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 24.—A. Featherstone's black whirlwind, Hatasoo, won the Brighton Oaks, for 3-year-old fillies, at Brighton Beach today. She carried 124 pounds and had to be ridden out to beat Sun Shower. The time, 1:40, was fair. It was the consensus of opinion before the race that Hatasoo could not carry the weight and go the route, but she hung on gamely today and surprised the wise ones.

Sister Juliet was played for a good thing. Her price opened at 4 to 1 and was backed down to 2 to 1. She and the winner were equal favorites at post time, closing at 2 to 1. Lady Holyrood, an added starter, broke in front and made the pace for half the distance, with Hatasoo second. Sister Juliet had no speed and gradually fell back beaten as they raced to the half-mile pole. Making the turn out of the back stretch O'Connor sent the Featherstone filly to the front, and she retained her lead to the finish, winning by one and one-half lengths, with Sun Shower, the outsider, second, and Ascension third.

Homestead, at the remarkable odds of 1 to 30, won the third race by five lengths from Trump. Prediction, the 1 to 3 favorite in the first race, was badly beaten. Athlana, with Odom up, and at 8 to 1 in the betting, was the winner. The favorite finished a bad fourth. Flirtineer, backed down from 4 to 1 to 13 to 5, won the last race in a gallop. Summary:

STEEL COMBINE EAGER TO FIGHT TO THE FINISH

NO OTHER ABSORPTIONS

Standard Oil Company to Build Its Own Ships—Gates Faction Wins a Victory in Court—Reversal of Foreign Trade in Iron.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 24.—Officials of the United States Steel Corporation today said there was absolutely no foundation for the report that a number of the directors of the corporation are in favor of abandoning the plan providing for the conversion of $200,000,000 preferred stock into bonds and the raising of $50,000,000 cash by an additional issue of bonds. Not a director could be found who would say that he was in favor of abandoning the plan absolutely or modifying it so that it would embrace only the additional issue of $50,000,000 of bonds.

"The plan," said one director, "will go through as it now stands. The fact that such a desperate effort is being made to defeat it makes us more determined than ever to put the deal through. We have already gone ahead with our improvements and additions, having spent an enormous amount of money in anticipation of realizing on the additional bond issue of $50,000,000. Under these conditions we could not very well abandon the plan in its entirety."

An official of the United States Steel Corporation said today the combine is not negotiating for the acquisition of other plants.

"Not until we find that our percentage of production as compared with the entire output of the country is shrinking rapidly," said he, "will we feel disposed to seek new concerns. As the matter now stands it will be years before it will be necessary for us to acquire other plants to maintain our pre-eminence in the matter of steel production."

Standard to Have Its Own Ships.

It was said on the best authority today that the Standard Oil Company is planning to build its own ships, as well as make its own repairs. This action is due to the difficulty the Standard has experienced in securing sufficient vessels to transport its products. At the present time it has under construction a large number of vessels, but the shipyards are so crowded that deliveries are being made too slowly to suit the Standard Oil management. The company is the largest purchaser of oil in the Texas district, but it will be some time before it will have sufficient vessels at its command to enable it to relieve the oil congestion in that state.

Gates Victory in Court.

Justice Hall, in the supreme court, today granted the application of A. S. Singer of Harris, Gates & Co., for permission to inspect the books of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company in the suit brought by Mr. Singer, who owns $2,400,000 stock of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company. This is regarded as an important victory for the Gates party, which is making a determined effort to secure control of the Colorado company. A representative of the Osgood faction today said that Mr. Gates would gain little through his having secured permission to examine the list of stockholders.

"The Osgood faction," said he, "has absolute control of the Colorado Fuel & Iron, and I am firmly convinced that at the annual meeting next month they will be able to elect their board of directors."

Once Interested in Pittsburgh.

E. W. Clark & Co. of Philadelphia, who have just purchased the entire capital stock of the St. Joseph Railways, Light, Heat & Power Company from the Harriman syndicate, formerly owned street railway properties in Pittsburgh. The banking house of J. & W. Seligman of New York is associated with it in the purchase.

Foreign Ore Trade Reversed.

The two features which continue to engage the attention of the eastern iron trade are the coal strike in Pennsylvania and Virginia, cutting off fuel supply and stopping pig iron production, and the large importations of foreign iron and steel that are setting in in consequence.

The abrupt reversal of the foreign movement is one of the most striking chapters in the history of American iron. Two years ago all Europe was alarmed over importations of American iron and steel. It was underselling home products in Great Britain and on the continent, and coming in such volume as to create a panic among foreign makers. Many American houses opened branches in English and continental centers. The threatened invasion of cheap iron from this country has been the chief theme of foreign trade and financial writers since.

The actual outward movement stopped over a year ago, but the foreigners were skeptical, believing the improvement in this country ephemeral, and that their

Local Stocks Were Fairly Active and Market Generally Firmer

BREWING AND COAL STOCKS LED THE DAY

Pittsburgh Coal Common Advanced Three-Quarters on Good Buying.

WINDOW GLASS FIRMER

Fire Proofing and Ice Common Firmer on Bull Tips—Airbrake Gained $2. Steel Shares Dull, but Steady. Banking Issues Firmer.

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday was fairly active, though the sales were considerably below those of the preceding day. The tone was quite firm and prices generally advanced. At the close the market was somewhat less active and slightly irregular, though still firmer than it has been in some time. The features were the brewing and coal issues, and these enjoyed the best part of the day's business. Brewing common sold nearly 800 shares and closed firm and ½ higher at 28½, the top price in months. The preferred did not sell quite 400 shares and lost ⅛ at 47⅝. It finished firm, however. In the coal stocks Pittsburgh common was the feature. The selling fell off to less than 450 shares, but the price advanced 75 cents a share to 208¾, with 20¾ afterward bid for large blocks. The advance was partly due to the cessation of selling by a house that has recently marketed thousands of shares, and, also, partly to talk of big earnings and a probable dividend in January if not in October. The earnings for June are estimated at $500,000, or practically twice those of the same month a year ago. The preferred sold less than 300 shares at 90, a gain of ½, and closed firm at that price bid. River Coal common was dull and unchanged at 12⅜, while the preferred was dull, but gained ¼ at 39¼. Window Glass was irregular and comparatively dull, only 650 shares selling. The close was firm at 61⅜, an advance of ⅛. Fire Proofing common advanced ¼ to 32 and was firm. It is stated that the company's earnings are much greater than ever before, and rumor says that an extra dividend is surely coming shortly. The common did not sell, but was firm and higher at 14 bid. There are bull tips on this stock, and they say it will go to 20 very shortly. This is to be the result of the new selling arrangement, which will largely increase the company's profits through the knowing of the expense of delivery. Westinghouse Airbrake was firmer and 82 higher at 183, while Electric seconds held steady at 104. The steel shares were quite dull but steady to firm at narrow changes. Banking issues were firm, the features being an advance of $4 in American Trust to 122 and of $5 in Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust to 230. Bonds were dull but firm. Brewing 6s advancing ⅞ to 112⅝ bid, the highest price in months.

PITTSBURGH FEATURES.

FINANCIAL DRIFT.

R. C. Hall bought Colonial Trust.

Pittsburgh Brewing 6s advanced to 112⅝ bid at the close.

A small lot of American District Telegraph offered at 100.

McMullin was not in the Window Glass market at all yesterday.

Near the close Hill & Co. bid 28¾ for 500 Pittsburgh Coal common.

Carothers & Co. and Barbour sold Westinghouse Airbrake; Sproul and Robinson Bros. bought.

There were 25 different securities traded in yesterday and all but 9 sold without a change in price.

Preston, Watt & Schoyer sold a block of 350 National Brewing common at 31⅝ to Robinson Bros.

The $5,000,000 3½ per cent 30-year bonds of the City of Philadelphia were awarded on a 3.25 per cent basis.

The first sale of the day was 25 Brewing preferred at 47½, and the last 8 Exchange National bank at 94.

Since last Friday the New York banks have lost $1,742,000 through sub-treasury operations, due to exports of gold.

Philadelphia Company preferred advanced to 49¾ bid. The semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent will be declared next month.

John H. Ricketson, president of the A. Garrison Foundry Company, has been elected a director of the South Side Trust Company.

Robinson Bros. sold United States Steel common and bought largely of Fire Proofing common, Pittsburgh Coal and Window Glass common.

The Metropolitan Street Railway stockholders' meeting, which has been adjourned from time to time, has been adjourned again until November 24.

The Citizens National bank, which has voted to liquidate, will have its checks henceforth cleared by the Mellon National bank until its affairs are finally settled.

Hill & Co. were the largest buyers of Pittsburgh Brewing common and the only ones of American Trust Company; Barbour was the principal seller of Brewing common.

Whitney & Stephenson, Hill & Co. and Barbour sold Pittsburgh Coal common; Miller, Carothers & Co. and Wettengel bought; Robinson Bros. bought the preferred; Sproul & Co. did not trade in either stock.

Judge Hall, of the New York supreme court, has granted the application of Arthur S. Singer, of Harris, Gates & Co., for permission to inspect books of the C., F. & I. Co. in the suit brought by Mr. Singer, who owns $2,400,000 of the C., F. & I. Co.'s securities.

The privilege is offered to preferred and common stockholders of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad to subscribe at par between August 8 and August 15 next, inclusive, to additional common stock to the extent of 10 per cent of their respective holdings, on August 1.

A Wall street broker writes: We do not see if the resources of the street are to be used up in carrying stock selling around 200 —where the money will come from to deal in stocks low priced—unless the shorts are compelled now to face a new condition. Formerly when stocks were selling at 50 to 100 per share, brokers were very glad on 10-point swings to buy and sell. Now, when stocks of the same stock is selling at 180 to 250. The amount of capital required to do business is entirely out of proportion to the compensation received for same. An order to buy 10,000 Southern Railway means an outlay of about $400,000 for the broker. The margin required to carry this in the bank is $80,000. The margin received from the customer is $50,000. The broker only borrows $30,000 of the money. His commission, if it is done for an out-of-town member is $625. Suppose the order is made in St. Paul. The first cost is $1,850,000, and the margin required is the same in bank is $370,000. The margin received from the customer is $100,000, and the capital locked up by the broker is $270,000. The commission amounts to $625. It is easy to see how little speculation of this kind is to be done, and what an enormous capital is required if such speculation is to be indulged in. I don't care to have anybody send us orders to buy high-priced stocks unless they are willing to put up the money to carry them. What is there, for example, to us in buying 1,000 Rock Island, borrowing $100,000 and putting up $40,000 of our capital to carry it, and make $500, commission on it. I can use that money to very much better advantage in buying a lot of lower-priced stocks.

Wall Street Pointers.

I think Union Pacific will sell higher.

The Gates crowd is openly bullish on Louisville & Nashville.

There is talk of an advance in the St. Paul dividend in September.

Big and good buying still continues in St. Paul. I think it is ten points more in it.

United States Steel issues were heavy on reports of an intention to abandon the bond issues.

Sugar was strong on talk of large earnings and a possible advance in the dividend rate in September.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas was strong on rumors of a preferred dividend and talk of large earnings.

Canadian interests are buying Canadian Pacific. The best informed people do not think an advance in the dividend is likely.

It seems to me that this market is entitled to a reaction. It has gone up steadily for about two weeks. I must say there is no sign of this, however.

I hear very good people talking 120 for Atchison common. This may seem fantastic, but my information comes from such a good source that I am bound to pay attention to it.

The Union Pacific pays 4 per cent and sells at 108; Baltimore & Ohio pays 4 per cent and sells at 110; Frisco seconds pays 4 per cent and sells at 76. I think the latter ought to sell on its merits certainly at 90.

We are not surprised at the disposition of the public to buy stocks even at the advance, the only thing that is surprising is that they have not awakened to a realization of the actual underlying conditions before. The conditions governing values are unquestionably the best that have been seen for a long time and notwithstanding the apparent high level of prices, the situation justifies even higher prices, which we believe will be realized at no very remote day.—Lounsbery.

ANOTHER BIG GAIN.

Pittsburgh Bank Exchanges for Yesterday Over $1,745,000 Larger Than a Year Ago.

Pittsburgh bank exchanges for yesterday were more than $1,745,000 larger than those for the same day last year, but compared with the preceding Thursday they showed a loss of about $2,000,000. The local money market continues quite spotted, being fairly comfortable, with some institutions, but very firm in others. In fact there was some calling of loans yesterday, and one big brokerage firm sent to New York for its supply of funds, that market being easier. The local rate for call and time loans continues to quote unchanged at 5@6 per cent. The official clearing house reports in detail for the days mentioned are as follows:

MARKET STREET REALTY BRINGS A GOOD FIGURE

No. 311 Is Purchased by J. R. Levy for $52,000.

186 HOUSES FOR ELLIOTT

Probable Sale of McCaffrey Property in Fifth Avenue Will Affect County Purchases — Big East End Deal. Bellevue Frontage Bought.

The first sale of Market street realty reported for a long time was closed yesterday, the amount involved being $52,000. The property in question is known as No. 311 and is situated in the north side of the street between Third and Fourth avenues. It was bought by J. R. Levy from Mrs. W. J. McAfee. The lot has a frontage of 18.75 feet, with a depth of 175 feet, and is improved with a three-story brick building. This is occupied by Phillip Landau as a dry goods and notion store. Mr. Levy last year bought the Holmes bank property, at Nos. 307 and 309 adjoining, and now occupies it with a dry goods store. Yesterday's purchase gives him a lot with 60 feet of frontage and a depth of 175 feet, a first-class site for a good store or office building.

With the improvements contemplated by the Wabash, and the new buildings that are going up in this part of the city, Market street property should come into market for business purposes and the rate paid for the McAfee lot, about $3,000 a foot, is considered reasonable.

Big Lot of Houses for Elliott.

Through the Mortgage Banking Company a syndicate of Pittsburgh real estate men has purchased from the William Mitchell heirs 13 acres in Elliott borough. The consideration is withheld, but property in that locality is known to be worth from $2,000 to $3,000 an acre.

The syndicate will proceed at once to plot the land into 186 lots, which will face in Lorenz and Love avenues and Elizabeth street. The streets are to be graded and furnished with gas and sewer connections. The plan will also be supplied with city water and electric light connection. It is situated only a block from the Elliott street car line, and only 14 minutes' ride from Market street.

On the property the syndicate will build 186 houses, 50 of which will be started August 1. These will be frame dwellings, containing five rooms and a bath each. A novel plan has been decided upon in connection with the building project, namely, that no vacant lots shall be sold, but that the homes, including house and lot, will, as fast as completed, be put on the market at $2,000 each. Of this amount $100 will be demanded as a first payment and the remainder is to be paid in monthly installments of $20 each. This amount is very little above the average rental for such houses and when the location is considered should prove an attractive plan to workingmen.

County Will Be Hit.

The reported sale of the McCaffrey property, at the corner of Fifth and Old avenues, which was published in an afternoon paper yesterday, was a little premature. One of the owners stated last night that no sale had been made but that a deal would probably be closed for the property today. The lot measures 50x100 feet and is improved with a three-story brick building, now occupied by the McCaffrey feed store.

The sale of this property, if it is consummated, may have an important bearing on the condemnation proceedings which are now pending against near by lots, which are wanted by the county for an addition to the jail. The McCaffrey lot is held at $40,000, or $1,200 a front foot. The options which the county secured in the spring on the other properties in question are as follows: E. Heineman, $20,000, or $800 a front foot; Charles Friel, $6,000, or $1,000 a front foot, and Catharina Smith $48,000, or $1,200 a front foot. These options expired May 1.

In the meantime Catharine Smith has begun proceedings contesting the right of the county to condemn her property. H. C. Frick has been named as a buyer of the McCaffrey property, but it is said the deal which is on for today is with another person.

Fourteen Houses Bring $74,155.

Thomas A. Watkins has conveyed to Clarence H. Powell a plot, 534x150 feet, at the northwest corner of Clearview street and Stanton avenue, Nineteenth ward, for $74,155. The property extends about half way from Stanton avenue to Black street. Mr. Watkins bought it a short time ago from Thuma & Kellnocker, who built 14 reception hall brick veneered houses on the property, each one standing on a lot having 30 feet front. The last two of the houses are now being completed and all are to be put on the market at once. The houses contain 10 rooms each and are provided with all the modern conveniences.

W. F. Weiterhausner of Allegheny has purchased from William Zoller 18 lots, at the head of Rogers avenue, Shelleyville, for $10,200 cash. The lots are 50x140 feet each, and eight of them have already been resold. Rogers avenue is now paved and the work of macadamizing the township road, which leads off from the avenue at this point, is started. This will open up a large amount of vacant frontage, which has hitherto been held back on account of its distance from improved streets.

FLINN'S TIGHT CINCH ON THE GARBAGE GAME

Under Clause in New Charter There Is a Practical Monopoly.

NO SHOW FOR OUTSIDERS

One-Year Clause Shuts Out All Competition Against the Pittsburgh Reduction Company and Perpetuates an Unsatisfactory Service.

The syndicate Karl F. Miller represents will not bid on the Pittsburgh garbage contract. The Pittsburgh Reduction Company, as it now looks, will have a practical monopoly of this business. The provision of the new charter which forbids awarding a city contract for stated services, for more than one year, shuts out the syndicate, according to Mr. Miller.

The opinion of City Solicitor Thomas D. Carnahan, based on the provisions of the charter, is accepted as being correct. The syndicate could not afford, according to Mr. Miller, to build a plant and put it in operation unless it were guaranteed a four-year contract. This the city cannot do.

"To carry out the terms of the garbage contract, should we bid and get it," said Mr. Miller yesterday, "would necessitate the building of a disposal plant 20 or 30 miles from this city. This plant would cost $150,000 or $175,000.

City Now Pays $94,000 Yearly.

"The Pittsburgh contract is now worth $94,000 a year. We hoped by our bid to make it considerably less than that, so that it would take us more than two years to pay for our plant. It is obvious that my concern could not begin to take a one-year contract without a guarantee of any longer time, when it would cost us twice as much as we would collect to prepare to do business.

The syndicate I represent now has garbage contracts in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Detroit and Washington. It is backed by a capital of $1,000,000. The system used is the best extant. The plant at the national capital is strictly clean. The service is so much better than that now in vogue in this city that it beggars comparison.

"Instead of hauling the garbage through the streets in open wagons, and dumping the offal into cars and all over the ground contiguous to the cars disseminating a terrible stench, the garbage there is moved in metal covered wagons.

How Garbage Is Moved Elsewhere.

"The beds of these wagons are movable and they are lifted by a huge crane, bodily, from the wagons, and placed on cars that are specially manufactured for the purpose. Still covered these wagon beds leave the city, and they are not uncovered until they are 20 miles away. This is only one of the many provisions which would improve the service.

"What business I have transacted with the syndicate I did with the Hon. John B. Corliss of Detroit, attorney for the syndicate, who is a member of congress from Michigan. Proctor & Gamble have nothing to do with it. The only connection the syndicate has with the soap trust is to sell to it the grease that comes from the garbage.

"We intended to purchase a tract of land near this city, and erect a plant. I do not care to say at what figure we expected to put our bid, but I will say that it would cost the city several thousands of dollars less than the present contract, which is $94,000 a year, and would give a much better service. I think it would be an excellent idea for a committee of councils, or of other citizens, to visit Washington and see the plant and system in operation there.

Has Been No Collusion.

"There has been no collusion between us and the Pittsburgh Reduction Company. I simply told Charles Flinn that if my concern was so fortunate as to get the contract it would buy in his plant, his horses, etc. I do not see what opportunity there would be for a 'graft,' as has been intimated. If the contract can be only had for one year, I would say now that no new or outside garbage firm can afford to bid. The only bidder possible will be the Pittsburgh Reduction Company, which has a plant here, and in operation. The charter provision practically confirms them in their hold on the contract."

Chairman W. H. Stevenson of the finance committee spent some time at City hall, yesterday, looking up the point that the four-year clause makes the ordinance illegal. He called on City Solicitor T. D. Carnahan, and learned that that official had filed an opinion with the city controller, months ago, to the effect that under the new charter, contracts for more than one year are illegal.

In a Quandary As to What to Do.

"I am now convinced that the new garbage ordinance is illegal," said Mr. Stevenson, "but the provisions are excellent. If carried out this ordinance would compel the performance of a garbage contract that would give the people what they pay for.

"About the only thing to do now is to indefinitely postpone it at the next meeting of councils, or reconsider the vote by which it passed second reading, put in a one-year clause and then drop all action until next February. I hardly know yet what will be done. I fear that this confirms the Flinn monopoly. No garbage firm will bid on a one-year contract."
